TANKS THROUGH LONDON—Major Harry Barker, standing in lead tank, gives the order which starts a parade of tanks through London, the beginning of a national display throughout the country in aid of the drive for more tanks. Major Barker, the tank commander, fought in France and at Tobruk. This part of London seen in this picture seems little damaged by Nazi bombs.

300 British Planes Roar Over Germany

LONDON (CP) — "Especially large fires" were started in Hanover last night when more than 300 Royal Air Force bombers roared over Germany for heavy assaults on Hanover, Brunswick and Magdeburg.

Other attacks were made on the docks at Rotterdam and Boulogne, a communiqué said. Loss of 12 planes was acknowledged.

During yesterday, the communiqué declared, Blenheim bombers scored direct hits on an Axis supply ship off the Netherlands coast and left it in flames and sinking. One plane was lost in daylight operations.

INNOVATION
Announcement of the number of planes participating in an innovation and authoritative sources said they understood the step was "carefully considered and will be repeated as often as possible." Loss of only 12 of the 300 planes—4 per cent—was considered low.

"By stating the number of bombers used our losses are put in proper perspective," authoritative sources said. "It gives the lie to clumsy and almost invariable attempts by the Germans to minimize the scale of our raids by describing them as carried out by weak forces."

FEW CASUALTIES

Over the British Isles, a communiqué said, Nazi night activity was on a small scale. A few enemy aircraft bombed parts of northeastern and eastern England, causing slight damage and a few casualties.

Of yesterday's daylight forays over enemy territory the Air Ministry said 14 Nazi planes were shot down from the skies. Five British planes were lost.

Three Polish squadrons of fighters were credited with downing 13 of the enemy aircraft. Three Polish fliers are missing, the Air Ministry said.

Warns Canadians

QUEBEC (CP)—Finance Minister Ilsley revealed today that Canada's total war expenditures in July "reached the record figure of about $108,000,000" and warned Canadians against overconfidence which might result from the present "rising tide of optimism in this country and in England."

CRASH VICTIM—Radio Operator D. N. Hannant of Victoria, was among 22 men who died when a trans-Atlantic ferry plane crashed while taking off in Britain yesterday. Rt. Hon. Arthur B. Purvis of Montreal, chairman of the British Supply Council in North America, was killed in the same accident. (See page 2 for story.)

OTTAWA (CP) — Unless the Cape Breton Collieries slowdown is "discontinued forthwith the government must take such measures as will ensure return to full production," Labor Minister Norman McLarty announced today.

Above, Richards appears in a Los Angeles court where Judge Emmet H. Wilson denied, temporarily, his request to change his name to Barbara Ann Richards. Judge Wilson said Richards must remain a man until the court determines if the change is permanent.

Final Bulletins Missing Plane Found, Local Man Aboard

CALGARY (CP)—A Royal Canadian Air Force plane missing overnight with three airmen aboard has been sighted from the air by searching fliers.
Men on the plane are: Flying Officer I. M. S. Brown of Victoria, son of Brigadier J. Sutherland Brown; L.A. F. W. Greenfield of Maidstone, Sask.; L.A. A. M. R. McGruther of Edmonton.

Battle of Atlantic 'Very Much Better'

LONDON (CP)—Britain's position in the Battle of the Atlantic is "very much better" than in the early summer because of widening operations against German submarines and "most valuable" United States assistance, authoritative sources declared today.

Although the scale of attacks has remained about the same and, in fact, has increased in some areas, these sources said British aircraft and surface units have "done very well in recent weeks" in the struggle to retain mastery of the sea lanes. The Axis, simultaneously, has "suffered very heavily" in the Mediterranean, they added, with the British there reversing the Atlantic situation and attacking German and Italian convoys successfully with light forces.

Arvida Dispute Will Be Probed

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe announced today the appointment of a Royal Commission to investigate all matters concerning the dispute between employees and employers at the Aluminum Company of Canada plant at Arvida, Que.

Named as Royal commissioners were Mr. Justice S. Letourneau and Mr. Justice W. L. Bond of the Quebec Court of King's Bench.
Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions, said the commissioners were named to conduct an inquiry "to fix responsibility and bring out the facts of the whole matter."

Frenchmen Warned

Germans Order Death To Enemies in France

VICHY (AP)—German authorities warned the entire population of occupied France today that it would be held responsible as a whole for outbreaks such as occurred in Paris this week, and ordered the death penalty for persons who support "in any manner whatsoever" Communist activity. Acting swiftly after shooting and fighting in the streets of the German-occupied capital was disclosed, the general commanding the German armed forces in France, Heinrich von Stuepnagel, issued this decree.

"The French Communist party having been dissolved, all Communist activity in France is forbidden."

ENEMY OF NAZIS

"Any person who carries out Communist activity, who carries out propaganda or who tries to, in brief anyone who supports in any manner whatsoever Communist activity, is an enemy of Germany. Those guilty are subject to the penalty of death, which will be pronounced by a German court martial.
"Any person finding himself in possession of an anti-German tract must hand it over immediately to the nearest German military service. Violators will be punished by a penalty up to 15 years at forced labor."
"I count on the wisdom and good sense of the population for everyone to contribute to preventing irresponsible elements from supporting the enemies of Germany. I warn you against the grave results which will follow the hostile attitude of Communist circles, not only for the guilty themselves but also for the entire population of the occupied territories."

Startling Moves Predicted From Democracies' Pledge

Canadian and Associated Press
Diplomatic circles in the capitals of the world indicated general belief today that the unprecedented sea meeting between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill would produce ere long more startling developments than their joint declaration of peace aims.

British sources likened the meeting to the conferences between Hitler and Mussolini which threw the world guessing, and expressed confidence that far-reaching decisions had been made which would be disclosed only at the right moment.

Washington, too, was pervaded by a feeling that parallel British-American action of a decisive nature was in the offing to implement policies enunciated in the Roosevelt-Churchill statement.

TOKYO CONCERNED

Tokyo reflected a similar belief and some quarters there contended a plan of joint military action against Japan to thwart her ambitions for establishing an Asiatic "co-prosperity sphere" undoubtedly had been discussed.

Germany was outwardly scornful. Sources close to the Foreign Office declared Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt had indicated clearly their "desires for omnipotence" and that Germany was ready to shatter the "Anglo-Saxon dream of world empire" by force of arms.

In Rome, Fascist circles also adopted a contemptuous attitude, saying they did not see how the declaration would disturb the efforts of the Axis powers.

Though no reaction was available immediately from Moscow, the Soviet radio broadcast a complete text of the Roosevelt-Churchill declaration, and Russian circles in London indicated they were well pleased. Netherlands government circles in London also displayed satisfaction.

BIG PROPAGANDA VALUE

Britain launched a mighty propaganda campaign to tell Europe's millions of the historic meeting.

The pledge that the two great English-speaking nations were not seeking territorial gains and the declaration they desired "no territorial changes that do not accord with the freely-expressed wishes of the peoples concerned" were considered prime propaganda points.

To spread word across Europe, Information Minister Brendan Bracken prepared a campaign to be carried on by broadcasts, pamphlets dropped from British and Russian planes, and underground channels.

ROOSEVELT BACK?

Meanwhile at Swampscott, Mass., an indication was given that President Roosevelt might come ashore tomorrow, ending his historic cruise.

William D. Hassett of the White House staff told a steadily increasing aggregation of reporters, photographers and radio men gathered there that an announcement would be made tonight.

Newsmen awaited word as to whether the President would receive them after he landed, in what might be a momentous press conference, filling in some of the details of the meeting at sea between the civil and military heads of the British and American governments.

POTOMAC OFF NOVA SCOTIA

A vague hint at where the meeting took place came in a dispatch from Halifax stating President Roosevelt's yacht Potomac arrived off Shelbourne, N.S., last Friday evening for a five-day stay.

Reports said the President had not been aboard the yacht since Saturday.

A coastguard cutter was said to have accompanied the Potomac and a United States cruiser was seen in the vicinity.

Already Sumner Welles, Under-Secretary of State, has returned from the conference and spent a good part of the morning reporting on the discussions to Cordell Hull, Secretary of State.

FEAR ACTION

In Tokyo, Domei, Japanese news agency, claimed that joint military action against Japan was one of the basic topics discussed by President Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill.

Domei quoted political observers as suggesting it was imperative Japan "proceed with her established policy and not allow herself to be played into the hands of the British-American camp."

Domei said these observers considered the British-American declaration, which did not mention Japan, was issued to estrange Japan and small European nations from Germany.

Although the eight-point declaration was vague and high-sounding, it was a "very wise and cunning move on the part of the two powers to enable them to cope with any situation," the observers were quoted as saying.

SECRET MEASURES?

"The true import, say these observers, lies in the various measures secreted behind the eight-point declaration," Domei reported.

Authoritative Tokyo sources, commenting on the Roosevelt-Churchill statement, said it:

1. Amounts to the extraction of a British pledge to the United States that Britain will not conclude a unilateral peace with Germany.

2. Underwrites alleged British American post-war aims of Anglo-Saxon world domination.

3. Demonstrates the British American failure to grasp the real causes underlying the war.

Reds Withdraw Beyond Dnieper

London sources said today Russian troops in the Ukraine are apparently withdrawing beyond the Dnieper River.

There is no positive information, however, that the Germans have crossed the Dnieper at any point, although they may have reached it somewhere south of Kiev.

Although the Germans appear to be trying to occupy the Black Sea ports of Odessa and Nikolaev, there is no indication in London they have achieved their goal.

DROPPED

In Moscow the Red Army communiqué dropped all mention of the Ukraine, after reporting abandonment of two towns there. Continued fighting in the Smolensk and Estonian sectors was reported. The abandoned towns are Pervomaisk on the Bug River and Bevo, 100 miles northeast of Nikolaev.

The Nazi high command in Berlin predicted there remained another fight in the offing in the western Ukraine with Soviet troops not already enclosed between the Bug and Dniester Rivers.

German sources claimed these troops are doomed, for they are being bombed by the Nazi air force. The Nazis also claimed all crossings south of Kiev for several hundred miles are in German hands.

Soviet war dispatches reported a fourth major Nazi offensive, apparently aimed at Leningrad, simultaneously with the southern smash toward Odessa.

The new offensive was pictured as a sequel to three major thrusts in which the Nazis reached their present positions or a line running north from the Ukraine east of Smolensk to the northern lakes and Baltic Sea, with the Russians holding out in northern Estonia.

The month-long Russian defence of Smolensk, conceded now to have been vacated, was cited by the army organ, Red Star, which said the Germans frequently were forced to take the defensive because of Russian counter-attacks and "this alone shows their calculations of a lightning war suffered defeat and the offensive sweep of German troops is exhausting itself."

Red Star said captured German documents showed there had been a change in plans.

CBC Apologizes, Thought Folks Wouldn't Be Up at 7

VANCOUVER—Following is a statement by Ira Dilworth, regional representative of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, in reference to its failure to carry over CBR Thursday's 7 a.m. broadcast from London by Major Clement Atlee.

"The corporation regrets very much any inconvenience and irritation which may have been occasioned to our listeners by the fact that Major Clement Atlee's speech was not carried on CBR at 7 a.m. yesterday. CBR does not join the national network until 8 a.m. (The transmitter gives purely local service from 7.30 to 8 a.m.).
"The decision not to extend the network was taken in the east. Our officials there had a very limited amount of time to make arrangements for the carrying of the original speech. They felt that the rebroadcast one hour later over CBR would be satisfactory to our listeners, a decision which proves now to have been an error in judgment and one which is sincerely regretted.

"We regret also, the incorrect information which was released to the press yesterday as to the time of the rebroadcast. This was announced as being at 8 p.m. instead of 8 a.m. This mistake was the result of a series of errors for which we have locally no responsibility. As soon as we received accurate information late last evening we attempted to correct the earlier statements by frequent broadcast announcements.
"Our apologies to the press!"

Defence Plans for This Area Ready

CALGARY (CP)—Alberta and British Columbia units of the Canadian (reserve) army have a job to do under the Pacific Coast Defence Plan, and if and when the need arises, they will be found at their posts, Major-General R. O. Alexander, general officer commanding the Pacific Coast Command, from Victoria, said in an interview here today.

He said that the army command, of which he is the head, is fully alive to the importance of west coast defence in the event of Japan entering the war on the side of the Axis powers.

Questioned further about the Pacific Coast defence situation, Maj.-Gen. Alexander said that naturally a good deal of interest had been displayed both by the press and public concerning defence arrangements and this had increased since the Japanese situation had developed so rapidly. He said, however, he was unable to disclose even the slightest detail of the plan, in view of the general situation but there was no harm in saying that army reserve units in Alberta and British Columbia form an important link in the scheme.

Second Mishap Takes 22 Lives

Victorian Lost, Purvis Killed When Ferry Plane Crashes

Type of plane in which 22 lost their lives.

Radio Officer D. N. Hannant, 1430 Myrtle Street, was among nine Canadians, 12 Americans and one Englishman announced today by the R.A.F. ferry command, to have been killed in a plane crash Thursday, in which Rt. Hon. Arthur B. Purvis of Montreal lost his life.

Radio Officer Hannant was a native of Lashburn, Sask., and was 23. He was educated at Marshall School, Saskatchewan, and studied radio in Toronto. In September, 1938, he joined the Department of Transport, working with Trans-Canada Air Lines. His last job with the air line was at Lethbridge.

He entered the Atlantic ferry service as a volunteer, and made several trips across the Atlantic. Meanwhile, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Hannant, moved to Victoria from Marshall, Sask. Three sisters, all married, live in Saskatchewan. Radio Officer Hannant was "an only son, and was single. The only time he spent in Victoria was doing his 30 days' training at Gordon Head camp last December.

The plane crashed while taking off at a British airport for the flight to Canada.

BURST INTO FLAMES

This version was given of the crash:

The plane was clear of the field on its take-off, but suddenly lost altitude. At the edge of the field it plowed into a raised road, skittered through a fence and burst into flames.

Wreckage was scattered over a considerable area and airmen and soldiers who ran to the scene with fire-fighting apparatus were held off by intense heat and smoke.

The name of Mr. Purvis, chairman of the British Supply Council in North America, was included among the nine Canadians.

Aside from Mr. Purvis, the list included 11 captains, seven radio tempting to strike at the Empire's Far Eastern bulwark.

Capt. Harold Balfour, Under Secretary of State for Air, flew to the scene of the crash this morning.

SECOND CRASH

It was the second such accident in less than a week.

Eight Canadians, 14 British and United States officers died last Sunday when their plane cracked up a few minutes before Lord Beaverbrook, Minister of Supply, took off in another craft to fly to the sea rendezvous between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

(See Page 5 for story of life of Rt. Hon. A. B. Purvis.)

Ocean Rendezvous

Churchill—F. D. R. Talks On 2 Big Warships

Canadian and Associated Press. Two big warships, one flying the White Ensign of the Royal Navy, the other the Stars and Stripes, were the scene of the momentous conferences "somewhere at sea" between Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt.

H.M.S. Prince of Wales, Britain's newest battleship, carried Mr. Churchill to the ocean rendezvous. Mr. Roosevelt voyaged to the scene aboard U.S.S. Augusta, after transferring from the Presidential yacht Potomac off the New England coast.

A constantly moving circle of destroyers, patrol boats and other small warships formed a precautionary defensive ring around the two ships, and American planes droned overhead, the London Daily Mail said.

Correspondent Walter Farr said Churchill and Roosevelt sat on the sunlit deck of the ship "with seagulls wheeling around."

NO CHANCES

"Occasionally the drone of a big American flying boat patrolling the skies was heard," Farr wrote. "The navy was taking no chances."

Farr quoted a high American official who took part in the conversations as saying:

"The President is the happiest-looking man on earth today. At the conferences it was hard to tell who looked happier—the President or Mr. Churchill.

"They knew each other well by talking for months on the trans-Atlantic telephone, so they were like two old friends meeting."

After the first "How do you do?" Farr wrote, Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill engaged in eager conversation.

"Officials left them and for more than an hour they talked alone, with their ship rocking gently on the Atlantic swell.

"Afterwards Mr. Churchill looked almost boyish as he went into the conference cabin. His aides followed with a great quantity of documents including many maps.

"Mr. Churchill was well wrapped up although the weather was not very cold. The President wore a light striped summer suit. Most of the time the two men were together the President had on a broad-brimmed, floppy fisherman's hat.

PEAKED CAP

"Mr. Churchill, of course, was wearing that peaked cap of his which everyone knows.

"During the talks Mr. Churchill constantly puffed at his cigars of which he had brought along a plentiful supply. The President smoked cigarettes in his long, elegant holder."

The White House in Washington released a photograph showing the two leaders on the Augusta last Saturday night, sitting in wicker chairs under an awning. Sumner Welles, U.S. Under-Secretary of State, could be seen in the picture, as well as the President's sons, Elliott and Franklin, who were dressed in their service uniforms. The President, Mr. Churchill and other civilians were evening clothes.

Another photograph showed Mr. Churchill in seafaring togs and the President in civvies, talking aboard the Prince of Wales after Sunday church service.

MANY OFFICIALS

The White House pictures also disclosed the large number of high British and U.S. officials in attendance.

For Britain there were Gen. Sir John Dill, chief of the Imperial Staff; Admiral Sir Dudley Pound, First Sea Lord; Lord Beaverbrook; Sir Wilfred Freeman, vice-chief of the air staff, and Sir Alexander Cadogan, foreign under-secretary.

For the United States, Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff; Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations; Admiral Ernest J. King, commander of the U.S. Atlantic fleet; Harry L. Hopkins, Lease-Lend administrator; W. Averell Harriman, who has been handling Lease-Lend matters in London; Rear-Admiral Ross T. McIntire; Brig.-Gen. Edwin M. Watson, the President's military aide, and Capt. John R. Reardall, the President's naval aide.

R.A.F. Wrecks Corinth Canal

CAIRO (AP)—British bombing planes in two recent attacks have wrecked the Corinth Canal, strategic waterway between the Peloponnese and the mainland of Greece, the Royal Air Force Middle East command announced today.

Examination of photographs of the attacks on the German-controlled canal show "considerable landslides on the banks . . . sufficient to prevent passage of enemy shipping for some considerable time."

It was announced also that the air arm of the British fleet had attacked the Axis submarine base at Augusta, Sicily, and started fires in a raid on the Sicilian city of Syracuse.

300 WAITRESSES GET $3 RAISE

VANCOUVER (CP)—Union restaurants in Vancouver have agreed to grant members of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees' Union, Local No. 28, a wage increase of $3 a week. It was announced today by Miss Flo Allen, union business manager. She said the employees also were awarded one week holiday with pay annually.

The increase brings wages of counter waitresses to $17 and of dining-room waitresses to $15 a week, with no deductions for meals.

Miss Allen said 32 restaurants have granted the increases to about 300 waitresses. (Nothing could be learned today in Victoria of any local wage increase for waitresses.)

Meeting Flop Say Germans

BERLIN (AP)—The meeting of Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt was described today by German spokesmen as "a 100 per cent flop."

The meeting, "these sources claimed," gave Germany "the most favorable diplomatic position possible."

"The President of the United States and the British Prime Minister are in a bad situation," they said. "Ever since Sumner Welles formulated ideas concerning a new post-war order, including a new League of Nations, and British Foreign Secretary Eden replied with a demand for one authoritative power to police Europe, we have noticed a discrepancy between the aims of the two countries, but we didn't dream the divergence was so great as has now been revealed."

SIGNIFICANT

These spokesmen claimed it was significant the British kept emphasizing it was President Roosevelt who took the initiative for the meeting.

"It is an old accepted fact that when the battle is won everybody claims the credit, but when it is lost one looks for a goat. It would be undignified even to discuss the Churchill-Roosevelt eight points. We know but one offensive and that is military. We have but one aim and that is the annihilation of the enemy. We have but one task and that is victory. If the so-called democracies want Germany disarmed, let them come and get our arms."

All Germany "and indeed all of Europe," these sources said, are interested in an answer by President Roosevelt to the following questions:

"1. Is there to be freedom of the seas for all nations large or small?
"2. Are you ready to give up your military bases and raze your fortresses?
"3. Will you give up your program of a two-ocean fleet?"

RAW MATERIALS

"4. Will you and Churchill renounce your monopoly on the raw materials of the earth?"

"5. Will you restore their colonies to the peoples of Europe who have the rightful title to them?"

"6. Do you propose to revalidate the Monroe Doctrine and do you recognize a Monroe Doctrine for others?"

"7. What are you prepared to do against the Bolshevik danger threatening Europe?"

"8. Are you prepared to put an end to the blockade war and to strangling economic measures?"

ROME

ROME (AP)—Fascist spokesmen said today they accepted the joint declaration by Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt as indicating the President considers the United States already in the war "whatever may be the opinion of the American people and Congress."

They professed to scorn the eight-point declaration as an abbreviated revival of President Wilson's 14-point peace plan and its "errors."

DUKE OF KENT VISITS BRANDON

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—Three silver Lockheed twin-motored planes glided to a landing at the No. 12 Service Flying Training School here at 11 a.m. (10 a.m. P.D.T.) today bringing the Duke of Kent and his party near the end of the western leg of a three-week inspection of air-training schools in the Dominion. The planes made a two-hour flight from Regina where the duke stopped overnight.

His Royal Highness was welcomed by Air-Commodore A. B. B. Shearer, officer commanding No. 2 training command at Winnipeg; officer commanding R. C. Gordon of No. 12 S.F.T.S.; Wing-Commander J. S. Scott of the No. 2 training command at Regina; and Mayor F. H. Young of Brandon.

Before leaving for Winnipeg by plane at 3.30 p.m. the King's youngest brother will inspect the flying school, tour downtown Brandon which has been decorated with flags, and visit the athletic grounds where 2,000 airmen of the training depot will go through their exercises.

JAP PLANE LOSSES

airmen were killed or taken prisoner.

CHIEF TRAIN ANNOUNCER
MISS GERALDINE FISHER has been named chief train announcer for the Great Western Railway and is on duty at London's Paddington Station.Red Guerrillas Thwart Nazis

MOSCOW (CP) — Details of how Soviet guerrillas operating behind German troops thwart transportation of German reserves to the front were given by a German private captured at "X" sector of the western front, a Soviet information bureau communiqué related.

The captive, Private Krauss, said: "Along the whole route from Warsaw to the front, our battalion was continuously attacked by Soviet guerrillas. 'Our truck column was crossing a forest. Suddenly, the leading truck fell into a pit-trap and intense machine gun fire rang out from the forest. In the skirmish 28 German soldiers and two officers were shot on the remaining portion of the forest road,' the communiqué quoted him as saying.

"Leaving the forest behind, the column reached a river and found the bridge destroyed. While we were restoring the bridge, we were shot at by a group of mounted Soviet guerrillas. Several soldiers and one officer on the truck next to ours were killed.

"Twenty-five kilometres from our destination our column fell under fire of two mine throwers. The first mine set afire the leading truck. The second killed 14 soldiers on the spot. . . . Altogether from starting point to our destination our battalion lost not less than 106 men and six officers killed and wounded."

The communiqué said a guerrilla unit commanded by a Capt. Zerkalin, successfully operating in the enemy's rear ranks, in three weeks had 16 engagements with Germans in which it destroyed 12 Fascist tanks, 23 trucks, 22 guns, 16 machine guns, 10 fuel tank cars and captured nine supply trains, 19 machine guns and over 300 rifles, which it distributed among local guerrillas. Over 550 German men and officers were killed in these engagements.

VOGUE PURE WHITE
CIGARETTE PAPERSKnox Says*'Keep Jump On Hitler'

NEW YORK (AP)—Col. Frank Knox, Secretary of the Navy, asserting in an article in the current issue of Collier's Magazine the United States has the jump on Hitler, says "the American people should demand that we keep the jump on Hitler—and jump on him first, where there is any doubt about it."

"Naval and military intelligence," Col. Knox said, "estimates that if Hitler wins in Europe and Great Britain his shipbuilding capacity will be at least four times our own. In addition, all Europe will become Hitler's aircraft factory. It would then be in his power to build a sea-air navy bigger than our own—bigger than anything we have planned."

"But we have the jump on Hitler—in ships and ship-based planes, in the 'know-how' of training, and most particularly, in the high morale and intelligence of our personnel."

Arguing for naval control of naval planes, Col. Knox revealed that a United States naval observer was aboard the American-built Catalina flying boat which spotted the German battleship Bismarck and brought her to her doom.

Pucheu Holds Vichy Power

VICHY (AP)—Pierre Pucheu, the new cabinet minister in charge of French police, has bounced from prewar obscurity to power equalled by only a few other men in Vichy France.

The 42-year-old minister of the interior, who as head of the police, national surety and mobile guards, becomes the chief collaborator of Vice-Premier Jean Darlan, represents the young business men's group which with the army and navy are running the Vichy government.

He earned the title of the "commuting minister" when, as secretary of state for industrial production, he lived in Paris and came to Vichy for cabinet meetings.

While new to politics, Pucheu is an old hand at collaboration with Germany. As foreign relations head of the powerful French steel cartel he began dealing with German industrialists in 1923.

He left that position in 1936 to join the Fascist movement of Jacques Doriot.

Dropping Doriot's movement before the war, Pucheu became affiliated with the Works banking interests.

This won him his appointment after the armistice as organizer of the machine industry for the Vichy government until he entered administration councils last February as industrial production secretary.

AMERICAN PLANES SHOOT DOWN NAZIS

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Major Gen. George H. Brett, chief of the United States army air corps, told an audience attending the dedication of a new aircraft factory that American Curtiss "Tomahawk" planes had brought down about 25 "enemy" aircraft between May 15 and June 23.

In the hands of British pilots, he said, the Buffalo-made pursuits also had provided protective patrols over land forces "with great success."

With Robert P. Patterson, Under-Secretary of War, Brett officiated at the formal opening of an $18,000,000 government-built plant which has been in operation in the Curtiss-Wright Corporation for two months.

Two aircraft plants out of the four in the Buffalo-Niagara Falls area, devoted almost exclusively to the production of pursuit planes, will soon be turning out machines at the rate of 6,000 a year. William S. Knudsen, head of the Office of Production Management, indicated at a press interview.

Chartered Accountants Elect Officers

VANCOUVER (CP)—Malcolm C. MacCannell of Edmonton was elected president of the Dominion Association of Chartered Accountants at the closing session here of the organization's four-day annual convention. He succeeds W. G. Rowe of Vancouver. The association delegates decided to hold the 1942 convention in Alberta, with Calgary named tentatively as the probable site. Kris A. Mapp of Toronto and H. L. McMackin of Saint John, N.B., were elected vice-presidents and Austin H. Carr, Toronto, secretary-treasurer.

Fred C. Hurst, Toronto, was named chairman of the finance committee; C. F. Elderkin, Montreal, chairman of the legislation committee, and W. G. H. Jephcott, Toronto, chairman of the education and examinations committee. Fred Johnson of Winnipeg was named member of the executive committee at large.

Everything 'Lovely'R.A.F. Men in U.S. Like Sodas, Girls

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Everything is "lovely" with the young Britons who came to the United States for training in preparation for service with the Royal Air Force.

The lads from England and Scotland are so pleased with everything they find here, so appreciative of all that is done for them, that naval officers say they are making some young Americans a bit ashamed of themselves. Ask any of these British boys how he likes this or that in the United States and he answers "lovely," or a similar word.

WHAT THEY LIKE

None of them talks much, but if you get them started they'll tell you they like the "friendly" people, the "very attractive" girls, the "exceptionally good" climate, the "amazingly plentiful" food, the "surprising" activity—and, most of all, "the way you're helping England."

The army, the navy and private aviation companies in the United States will train 8,000 of these R.A.F. youngsters to be fliers, gunners, radiomen and aerial observers.

They're just boys—17, 18, 19 and 20 years old—and when they arrived one night by train after a long ride from Canada, where they had just landed from a much longer trip by boat from Britain, they showed the strain of their difficult journey.

Naval officers met them at the union station in downtown Jacksonville and gave them a few minutes to unlimber their legs before loading them into a bus for the short trip out to the air station. When the party was ready to board the bus, five of the young Britons were missing.

SODA FOUNTAIN

After a search, an officer found the five boys atop stools in a soda fountain shop.

They all had more than one soda. One fellow who had five in a row explained by saying he had learned for the first time in his life that sodas were made in flavors other than vanilla. He had five different flavors and not one of them had been vanilla.

They're working hard at the naval air station, working side by side with several thousand young American sailors in the trade schools. They're up at 5 in the morning and busy every minute until 10.30 at night.

British, U.S. Press Hail World's New Magna Carta

Following is United States and British press comment on the Churchill-Roosevelt meeting, now being variously dubbed "the charter of freedom," "charter of human liberties" and "Atlantic charter."

UNITED STATES

Buffalo Evening News: "These war and peace aims afford the outline for a better world . . . the world now knows not only what Great Britain and the United States are fighting and working against, but also what they are fighting and working for."

The Atlanta Journal: "The meeting at sea of the two great democratic leaders will rank in world significance with the signing of the Magna Carta at Runnymede and the adoption of the constitution of the United States."

New York World-Telegram: "Mr. Roosevelt has great resourcefulness and great daring. Under his leadership, the country has been committed to a degree of participation in the affairs of the other hemisphere. At the same time he is pledged also to keep American troops out of the wars of that hemisphere. The immediate future may determine whether these two commitments can function side by side."

New York Sun: "It is implicit, in everything the joint announcement said, that it is no outline of a peace through present negotiation but an outline of a peace that can come only after the downfall of militant Hitlerism."

INSPIRING

Washington Evening Star: "Because the statement necessarily is couched in generalities, it will draw the fire of those who are ever quick to criticize, but, to say the least, it is an inspiring document when measured against the blighting policies which have been shaped and put into effect as a result of meetings at the Brenner Pass."

Boston Globe: "There is in the eight points as there was in the 14 (Wilson's) a promise of consideration for the vanquished as well as the victors. Two decades ago the victors broke their promise, then fell fast asleep. This time, if the Axis is beaten, it might be well for the victor to keep faith, but to carry his pistol on his hip until the future is safe."

Milwaukee Journal: "The Roosevelt-Churchill statement is notice to Hitler that peace can come only in recognition of the rights of humanity and of groups of human beings called nations." Sioux Falls, S.D., Argus-Leader: "It is interesting to note that no penalties are to be imposed such as those which followed the last war."

Denver Post: "It will be interesting to hear what Congress thinks of the President's action in entering into an 'alliance' with Great Britain without consulting the Senate. . . ."

Minneapolis Star-Journal: "It takes the initiative away from Hitler. . . . It sets up objectives for a free world in juxtaposition to the objectives which Hitler's impending European (peace) conference is expected to set up for his kind of world. The declaration answers a long and rising demand, especially in the United States, for a statement of war aims which, if it meets public acceptance, can further the unity and purpose of the American people."

BRITISH

London Daily Mail: "The meeting . . . is the portent of tremendous events. The octopus of war is spreading its tentacles across the globe. . . ."

London Daily Telegraph: "Achievement of this union of policy and concord of action is momentous. Every circumstance of the manner in which it was secured adds to its force . . . the meeting proclaims the change by which united effort has transformed 3,000 miles of ocean from an abyss dividing us into a means of bond of union—an endless belt of communication and supply."

The London Times: "When Mr. Churchill last crossed the Atlantic (in 1931) the world was on the eve of that economic blizzard from which emerged not only Hitler but the 'New Deal' devised by Mr. Roosevelt for his own country. This new crossing in the midst of a military blizzard may well accelerate elimination of Hitler and his imitators and a new deal for the world. . . ."

London News Chronicle: "The significance of quality will not be lost upon the world—allied, neutral or enemy. In Germany the memory of 1918 will be revived and fear of Anglo-American invincibility will add its dark shadow to the thrusting wings of the Royal Air Force over the land of the third Reich."

London Daily Herald: "The declaration is a matchless weapon of propaganda. Boldly and skillfully used it will contribute immensely to winning the war."

Near-accident Drivers Warned

Chief of Police J. A. McLellan warns there is a type of automobile driver who menaces all traffic on the road because he seems to enjoy the sensation of narrowly escaping accidents.

"Such a driver can be described as an accident-prone driver," said the chief. "He drives at full speed to within a few feet of an intersection, then jams on his brakes with a grind and a screech. He makes a practice of coming up to a turn so fast that he only just makes it. He boasts to his friends of his close shaves and his narrow escapes; and the private opinion of his friends is that he is a misery to ride with."

"In 99 cases out of 100 the accident-prone driver manages to manipulate his car in some way to avoid an accident," continued the chief, "but in the 100th case his near-accident becomes a real one. This time he finds he is unable to negotiate the turn and he heads for the opposing line of traffic, or the ditch—and the ambulance is called!"

"The accident-prone driver should look at himself at other people see him, not as a smart driver, but as a very foolhardy and inexperienced one, and he should remember that a serious accident is the logical outcome of the minor mishaps and near-accidents in which he indulges."

$5 and $10BUILDERS WARNED

OTTAWA (CP) — P. Blake Jackson, deputy priorities officer in charge of civilian construction control, has warned that any contravention of the order-in-council prohibiting construction or repair of buildings, except under license is an offence under the Department of Munitions and Supply Act and will be subject to the full penalties provided.

"The provisions of the order have been called to the attention of the entire building trade," Mr. Jackson said. "Nevertheless, in some localities the regulations governing new construction are being ignored."

Mr. Jackson said the system now in effect prohibits, except under license, construction of new buildings, installation of equipment, and alteration, repairs and additions to any existing building or buildings. Permits were not required for building extensions and repairs not exceeding $2,500 and for installation of equipment when the installed cost did not exceed $5,000. New buildings costing less than $10,000 also were exempt.

Logging, mining and fishing were exempted from license along with dwelling houses. Apartment houses containing more than three self-contained dwelling places, were, however, subject to license.

Her mother, Mrs. Mary Jackson, mother of four other children, was reported progressing favorably.

Inquiry About Arvida

TO INVESTIGATE ALL MATTERS CONCERNING the dispute between employees and employers at the Aluminum Company of Canada's plant at Arvida, Quebec, Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, has appointed a Royal Commission composed of Mr. Justice S. Letourneau and Mr. Justice W. L. Bond, both of the Quebec Court of King's Bench—both of Montreal.

This announcement from the chief law officer of the Crown will meet with public approval. The disturbance at the plant in question constituted the most serious interruption of war production in Canada since hostilities began; it caused a halt of three weeks in the output of the precious aluminum on which the nation's aircraft industry depends. And there are obviously certain aspects of the dispute, both in respect of its cause and the action taken by the Department of Labor and the Ministry of Munitions and Supply, about which the people of Canada so far have been by no means adequately advised.

It will be recalled that Hon. C. D. Howe informed a press conference more than two weeks ago that 300 men employed at the Arvida establishment had seized control of the plant and had brought about complete cessation of operations for more than three days, during which certain mechanism peculiar to aluminum production became seriously endangered when its normal processes were discontinued. On the occasion referred to, moreover, the minister voiced his opinion that "enemy sabotage" was at the bottom of the trouble, and that if no arrest had been made at the time of his disclosure of the "incident," the public could expect action of this kind almost immediately. We have seen no report of arrests.

It is to be hoped, therefore, that the investigation now ordered by the Minister of Justice will be a thorough one. Several factors to which the press of the country has drawn pointed attention will continue to disturb the public mind unless and until they are satisfactorily cleared up. The nation's ever-expanding war effort must not be subjected to any such similar occurrence. The inquiry, as Mr. Howe explained this morning, is "to fix responsibility and bring out the facts of the whole matter." Nothing less will do.

Back in 1917

BRITISH AND ALLIED STRATEGISTS are being importuned—not, of course, unreasonably—to take especial stock of the present situation as far as Russia is concerned and what may be deemed necessary to bring about decisive results, or the visible promise of them, before the winter months set in. Behind this desire to see more of the finished picture while the artist is busy blending his colors and sketching the outline of his hopes is detected the persistent feeling that the Soviet Union's powers of resistance may give out before the Nazi high command has overreached itself—before, for example, the enemy is forced into a stalemate and is obliged to dig himself in on climatic grounds if for no other reason. Demanding a plan is one thing; to get it drawn so that the layman can understand it and derive comfort from it is another matter altogether. It is nevertheless interesting at this stage of the war on the eastern front to recall this paragraph from the sixth volume of Mr. Lloyd George's memoirs:

"Although the Bolshevik government of Russia deserted the Entente and signed a separate peace with Germany (this, of course, refers to the Treaty of Brest-Litovsk), it was obvious in these circumstances that the Entente could not afford to abandon Russia to the domination of Germany. We could not acquiesce in the vast accession of strength which Prussian imperialism stood to gain from its treaty policy, especially from the dominance over the Ukraine which gave it access to great stores of wheat and cattle; to the coal of the Donetz Basin; and ultimately, by way of the Black Sea and the Caucasus, to the vast oil deposits of the Caspian. If Germany succeeded in provisioning herself freely from these sources, the whole effect of our blockade would be lost. By controlling the Ukraine and the Black Sea, the Caucasus and the Caspian, and penetrating into Siberia, they hoped to escape from the stranglehold of the Allied blockade. In those regions, rich in natural resources, they expected to secure immense stocks of cereals and meat; draught animals for their army transport; leather; petroleum; copper and iron. Had their hopes been fully realized, the war might have had a different outcome."

While the circumstances of the moment suggest no clearly-defined parallel to conditions and potential developments of 24 years ago, the same area of Russia referred to by Mr. Lloyd George is the cynosure of the world's eyes, and the threat in all its implications is by no means dissimilar. The Ukraine, the Black Sea, the Caucasus and the Caspian are paramount objectives of the Nazi high command. They loom still more definitely in view of the fact that Soviet resistance on the central and northern sectors of the eastern front seems to have caused Hitler and his gang to go in for new scheming on their own account. The question remains, then, if Britain experienced the urgent need for fresh planning after the collapse of France, how much more urgent is the need now to anticipate further Russian setbacks as the days and weeks pass? Politically, of course, there is no analogy with 1917. Russia is united as never before. She is now fighting a people's war; intrigue at court, political sabotage from within and without, and an ill-fed, ill-munitioned army produced Brest-Litovsk. Despite all this, will it be possible for Britain and her Allies to establish a new front to protect and help to save the area for which Mr. Lloyd George was so solicitous; always assuming, of course, Russia may not be quite equal to the task? Time and circumstances will answer the question.

Died "Gloriously"

MUSSOLINI'S SECOND SON BRUNO met his death the other day in an air-plane crash; he was reported to have died "gloriously" on a flight in an experimental machine. The nature of his dying naturally will not be a subject for controversy; many a young man engaged in a much more laudable adventure has met his end along the skyways. But Bruno was a great admirer of his older brother Vittorio—who once described war as the "quintessence of beauty"—the little beast who bombed the Ethiopians and described his mental reactions thus way:

"We arrived upon them unobserved and immediately dropped our loads of explosives. . . . I remember that one group of horsemen gave me the impression of a budding rose as the bombs fell in their midst. It was exceptionally good fun."

It is not for us to wonder how the father of these two callous youths felt as he gazed upon the remains of Bruno while the body lay in its casket awaiting interment. His thoughts may have gone back to the days of the affair of Matteotti, the brilliant Socialist deputy whose murder he "arranged" when, 17 years ago, there still lived a few Italian patriots with the Garibaldian spirit. Bruno Mussolini was only six years old when his father told men like Senator Albertini, former editor of the great Liberal daily, Corriere della Sera, that the only way to speak of such critics was in the "language of the revolver." Benito has heard more than one shot at himself; one of these days he may die less "gloriously" than his second son.

Japan Worried?

JAPAN'S OFFICIAL NEWS AGENCY, Domei, warns the Japanese people that one of the basic topics discussed by Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt was joint military action against Japan. This conclusion was arrived at after comments from political observers had been carefully examined and sifted. However, so says Domei, it is imperative that Japan "proceed with her established policy and not allow herself to be played into the hands of the British-American camp." And although no reference was made to Japan in the historic eight-point pronouncement from the leaders of the two great democracies, Domei tries to console the Japanese people with an assurance that it was both "vague" and "high-sounding"—albeit "a very wise and cunning move on the part of two powers to enable them to cope with any situation."

If Japan is in the mood to interpret part of the declaration as having special regard for her "co-prosperity" program for the Far East, it rests solely with the warlords of Tokyo to conduct themselves accordingly. It should be clear to the hardest-headed Japanese militarist that men like Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt at this stage of the world conflagration waste little time in the exchange of platitudes or even labored consideration of Japanese fears and hopes. The Prime Minister and the President are realists first. In other words, if the Japanese government is desirous of discovering what lies behind the "very wise and cunning move" or the "vague and high-sounding" quality of yesterday's declaration in general, it is its privilege to make the next move.

The handwriting on the wall is a pretty good indication that the house is rented. When last seen, Hon. Japanese Government had found tightrope and was going out for a stroll.

APPLES SHOULD BE USED

Prospective wastage of apples in Canada this year, unless bold measures are taken to utilize the surplus for manufacture of juice, apple pulp and other food products and possibly also for manufacture of power alcohol, will be mitigated to some extent by the fact that the crop will be the smallest since 1930. However, there will be still a surplus and it is to be hoped that there will be action under private or government auspices, or both, adequate to ensure that this valuable resource will be used to the maximum degree. Various proposals are before the government, all requiring capital in moderate amounts, for making use of the B.C. surplus of apples. In some cases private capital will be forthcoming if government assistance is obtained that the product will be distributed through government agencies. In other cases, government financial assistance would be required. As the federal government, by underwriting the apple crop, has a big sum already at stake, it is doubly to the interest of the government to endeavor to make good use of the apples. Those familiar with the problem contend that by a comparatively small additional outlay the government could cut its loss on the apple deal very materially and possibly eliminate the loss entirely.

DOMESTIC ISSUE

HOW MUCH should a wife assist her husband in his business? This question has never been more prettily posed than in the suit for divorce filed against Joe Louis by his wife, the former Marva Trotter.

In her complaint, which was filed through the courts and not through Arthur Donovan as you might expect, Mrs. Louis charges cruelty. She states that on several occasions the heavyweight champion of the world not only struck her with his fists, but stepped on her ankles as well.

If you go beneath the surface of this case—go into a clinch with it, so to speak—you cannot help but feel that the judge who will hear it in September faces an unusually heavy responsibility. For no matter how he rules, his decision most certainly will influence future cases involving the extent to which wives should co-operate with their husbands in earning a living.

HELPMATES

LET US SUPPOSE that he decides in favor of Mrs. Brown Bomber, as the champion's wife is known to her intimates. All over the country wives of men in all professions will have been furnished legal precedent for refusing to lift a finger toward the furthering of their husbands' careers. Because there can be no denying that in serving as a sparring partner for Joe, Mrs. Louis contributed toward his retention of the championship of the world.

In boxing, just as in all other professions, practice makes perfect, and who knows but that the little extra workouts Joe enjoyed against Mrs. Louis in the living-room resulted in the sharpness of the left hooks and right crosses with which he knocked out Billy Conn in the 13th round at the Polo Grounds.

Even the Indelicate business of Joe stepping on his wife's ankles could easily have been of professional importance to him. More than one major fight has been won by a fighter just because he was skilled in tramping on insteps.

One well-placed stomp on the ankle or instep is sufficient to divert a fighter's attention long enough for him to suffer a knockout blow.

SPARRING PARTNER

SEVERAL BOXING PEDANTS we talked to were of the opinion that Mrs. Louis' weight of 124 pounds made her ideal size for Joe to spar with. They explained that it developed his speed and timing, especially if his domestic opponent was crafty enough to use the radio, piano stool, or end table as defensive obstacles.

Joe certainly prospered during the years his wife charges he used her as a fireside punching bag. His bank account reached $1,000,000 or more and it would be interesting to know how much of his success he accredits to her co-operation, willing or otherwise. How many, if any, of the knock-out blows he has delivered owe part of their lethal power to the informal, nontitle fights that Mrs. Louis implies in her complaint were staged under the chandeliers of their home, instead of under the more proper arcs of the Polo Grounds or Madison Square Garden?

INSIDE INFORMATION

IT IS TO BE HOPED that Mr. and Mrs. Brown Bomber will be able to patch up their difficulties. If they find that impossible, however, Joe could do the fight fans of the country a great favor by demanding a bill of particulars, thus forcing his wife to outline the extent of the damages caused by the punches she alleges he threw at her. One of the most-discussed topics in the sports world today is whether or not Louis has slipped.

Mrs. Louis holds the answer. How did his punches feel? Did they have the old snap and violence, or was she able to take them? Her explanation will go a long way toward establishing the odds for Joe's heavyweight championship with Lou Nova in September. If her bill of particulars described them as being of the type that felled say, King Levinsky or Jim Braddock, then we would know that Louis was as good as ever and that we could offer odds of 10 to 1 with perfect safety. On the other hand, if she said she was up and about the house in a week or 10 days after they landed, we'd know that Nova had a reasonably good chance of winning the title.

SECOND FALL OF FRANCE

When the history of these times comes to be written, the second fall of France will make one of the most tragic and pathetic chapters.

The first fall of France was a catastrophe only in the military and political sense. France was beaten on the battlefield for a combination of reasons, chief of which was that her generalship, her doctrine of war, was totally unable to cope with that of her enemy in the time available.

But all of the experts who produced all of the reasons why France fell in June, 1940, are like the doctors who perform the post-mortem examinations on some departed human being. One simple thing killed him. But there were dozens of factors which got him into the condition whereby he could be so killed.

The decisive part of the battle for France all took place in the five days following the German crash through the Sedan hinge. As Time magazine recently showed in its review of de Gaulle's rise, all the French generals in high places were in favor of throwing up the sponge when the Nazis reached Abbeville. Only de Gaulle favored fighting on. Reynaud's determination to do so was therefore hamstrung by the fact that all his chief advisers thought the fight was hopeless.

France sued for peace because her most responsible leaders were convinced that the whole war was lost—that Britain could not hold out another month—that further resistance was only prolonging the agony and compounding the grief.

It is easy for us now to be very wise, and to point to that as one of the most tragic errors of judgment in all history. The point is that it was just a mistake. France was beaten but not disgraced.

PETAIN CHOOSES HITLER

The second fall of France is a matter of deliberate betrayal. Marshal Petain and his associates have had 16 months to make a new appraisal of the world situation. They no longer had the slightest excuse for imagining that Britain is going to be beaten, or that democratic ideals are going to be swept completely from the world by force. They knew, beyond all shadow of doubt, that the throwing into the struggle of what power France still possesses in Africa might be sufficient to swing the pendulum quickly against the Axis. They chose otherwise.

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN

From Fort Erie Times-Review
At the time it seemed to be nobody's business, otherwise many of the thousands of youngsters who were "riding the rods" during the early 1930's, traveling aimlessly from place to place, might today be the skilled machine-tool operators now needed so urgently.

"The outside world has tried to understand the position of the Vichy government; and has appreciated the fact that Petain was like a man with a hangman's noose about his neck—with the business end in the hands of Hitler. For that reason Canada and other countries have maintained official diplomatic relationship with Vichy.

It has been difficult to justify the maintenance of these relationships during the stubborn fighting against our armies in Syria; and the failure by France to voice one word of protest or lift a finger to prevent the Japanese occupation of Indo-China with all that such occupation might imply in the way of menace to Singapore and Australia. It is impossible to justify them now that Petain has told the whole world that he intends to coerce his own people into collaboration with Hitler in the setting up of the Nazified Europe.

LAST HOPE

Last hope of preventing a complete break between the democracies and official France is Marshal Maxime Weygand. This once right-hand man of Foch might still swing the balance by raising the banner of anti-Nazi France in North Africa.

If he does so, our own task in Africa is greatly simplified. If he fails to do so, our difficulties in this war are greatly magnified. We may have to fight unwilling soldiers of Vichy in many places as we have already had to fight them in Syria.

Where we could best fight them, in my opinion, is in France itself. Hitherto we have been prevented from doing many things by the remnant of a hope that Vichy might yet redeem the honor of official France. Now that that hope is gone the sensible thing is to help the people of France fight to clean out the traitors who would make their descendants forever slaves of the Teutonic overlords.

Few indeed are the people who would not consume more goods if they could. The secret of enabling all to consume more is to make it possible for all to produce more.—Wheeler McMillen, president National Farm Chemurgic Council.

HEAD OF THE HOUSE

From Ottawa Citizen

The experience of an enumerator in Petrolia makes it obvious that on one point at least the census isn't going to reveal the facts. He says he explained to an irate lady that where there was a husband in the count the man had to be designated as head of the house. "Well," says she, "you can put mine down as head—but he ain't; and there's lots more like him!"

Sees Holding Units

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND (CP)—Maj. Gen. P. J. Montague, senior officer at Canadian Military Headquarters, is carrying out a series of inspections of base holding units, which come under his direct command.

Recently he visited the Royal Canadian Engineers' Holding Unit and the Machine-gun Holding Unit, checking up on instruction and everything from cook-houses to girder bridges. At the Sapper camp he talked with a score of officers, including Maj. Ken Flebman of Calgary and R.S.M. R. E. Boorman of Dauphin, Man.

Two Royal Canadian Air Force army co-operation pilots have been assigned to new duties. Flt.-Lt. Chris (Kit) Bushell of Toronto is second-in-command of a new night fighter squadron and Flt.-Lt. Stu Pallen of Regina is with a bomber squadron.

Vanier Promoted

OTTAWA (CP)—Lt.-Col. G. P. Vanier, former Canadian minister to France, has been promoted to rank of brigadier and appointed officer commanding Military District No. 5 with headquarters in Quebec, National Defence Headquarters has announced.

Brig. Vanier succeeds Brig. H. Lefebvre who is proceeding overseas to assume a new appointment under Maj.-Gen. P. J. Montague, senior officer in Canadian Military Headquarters, London.

Joined in England

Richard Slee, son of Mrs. A. B. Slee and the late Major Slee, Duncan, has been accepted by the Royal Air Force for training as a pilot. With the help of a generous American he and four other B.C. boys were recently enabled to fly to England to offer their services. Four of them are now training as pilots, the other as a mechanic.

MACDONALD SEES CANADA SAILORS

SOMEWHERE ON THE SOUTH COAST OF ENGLAND (CP)—Canada's navy minister, Angus L. Macdonald, thrilled British and Canadian naval forces soon to join the ships of the Royal Navy with the story of a young Canadian rating, who did not live to see England, but who died after a fire on H.M.C.S. Otter with the words "There'll Always Be An England" on his lips.

He later identified the youth as Alex Day of Belleville, Ont. The rating died of exposure soon after he was rescued from icy waters into which he had fallen from a raft.

As he was dying he murmured the words of the song. He had acquired, said Mr. Macdonald, in a few short weeks the spirit of the Royal Navy—"a spirit that actuates the people of the Empire, a spirit which will win the war."

Mr. Macdonald spoke in a crowded mess hall after a three-hour tour of naval establishments where he was shown many aspects of training. He said he was "tremendously impressed."

During the tour the men he met included Fred Whitehead of Vancouver, James Monteith of Calgary, R. M. Smith of Regina and Cecil Spearin of Winnipeg.

VENEREAL DISEASE

"With the closing of 33 wide-open bawdy houses in Vancouver 28 months ago, latest figures show that syphilis infection in that city has dropped 58 per cent," Dr. D. H. Williams, director of the Department of Health for B.C., told the Rotary Club yesterday, speaking on the subject, "The War Effort and the Venereal Problem."

The most serious hazard that his department has had to face, said Dr. Williams, both in connection with civic health and the health of those engaged in the war effort, is that of commercial prostitution. Its danger was obvious to health authorities, he continued, but until recently the citizens of the province had not fully realized its dangers. British Columbia had made great progress in the elimination of this disease. Deputations from other parts of Canada and from responsible organizations in the United States, including the War Department and the Rockefeller Centre, had come to the province to study the control methods used here.

"Enforcement of the Criminal Code of Canada is what made control successful in British Columbia," the speaker stated, adding that this system was now being used extensively elsewhere. On July 5 President Roosevelt signed an order that placed a $5,000 fine or imprisonment of one year on third parties exploiting diseased women near military camps.

It was the duty of the Health Department of the province to see that disease did not harm the war effort. In this war, he said, there was no need for an increase in venereal infections because health authorities now had enough knowledge in this line to prevent such a calamity. In British Columbia, he added, there had been no increase despite 23 months of war.

POLITICS

CHANCES ESTIMATED

"The Conservative organization in the Cowichan district has shown no activity since the last federal election," says the Cowichan Leader, dealing editorially with E. W. Neel's probable entry into the campaign as a Conservative candidate. "It is freely admitted by Conservatives themselves that the party is not in that virulent state necessary to prosecute a successful election campaign, but there are hopes of getting it into working order and gaining support."

"Frankly, we can see no possibility of those hopes blossoming into successful fruition. In the last provincial election Mr. Sam Guthrie, C.C.F. candidate, obtained over 1,560 votes. In the last federal election the C.C.F. candidate, Mr. Ronald Grantham, obtained over 2,280 votes in the area comprising this riding."

"Since that time the provincial government has made a redistribution which has, according to good authority, included another 300 to 400 C.C.F. votes in the north end of Cowichan-Newcastle riding. Obviously it will take 2,000 votes to elect a Conservative candidate, provincial election polling being usually lower than federal. It is impossible to secure that many for the Conservative party."

"In the last federal election Mr. Alan Chambers, M.P., Liberal, polled 2,716 votes in the provincial riding area. Mr. Frank Cunliffe, Conservative, was given 1,709 votes in the same area. Surely all these facts stand out clearly, and even more surely they should be faced."

"The complete figures for the last provincial election were: Mr. Guthrie, 1,560; Mr. Flett, Liberal, 1,224; Mr. Savage, Independent, 1,222; Mr. Deykin, Conservative, 635. There is no reason in juggling these figures in a fantastic way, because it would indeed take fantastic juggling to find anything but a re-election if a three-cornered contest is forced; and a true reflection of the wishes of the electors in respect of two different schools of thought would again be impossible."

"Mr. Flett might with most reason be given an outside chance to win on a three-cornered contest. It therefore cannot be expected that he should be the one to retire from the field. Is it not possible that he might be approached with a view to securing an undertaking that he would not be blindly tied to the party machine and all its policies, as are practically all those who are elected under a party banner?"

"We learn that there is also some disposition in Comox towards a 'saw-off'."

NEEL FOR COWICHAN

E. W. Neel, Duncan, is ready to stand as Conservative candidate in Cowichan-Newcastle riding if nominated. He will allow his name to go before a nominating convention which the Conservatives plan to hold in the Recreation Hall, Chemainus, on Wednesday, August 27.

This creates the possibility of a three-cornered fight, as Mr. Arnold Flett has been nominated by the Liberals and Samuel Guthrie is again the C.C.F. candidate.

Death of Arthur Purvis Great Loss to Canada

Death of Rt. Hon. Arthur Blaikie Purvis, director-general of the British purchasing mission in the U.S. and chairman of the British Supply Council, in the crash of an Atlantic ferry plane in England, removed one of Canada's outstanding industrial leaders.

When war broke out Mr. Purvis was president and managing director of Canadian Industries Ltd., in which capacity he visited Victoria several times.

Mr. Purvis, who was 51, was handed the vast job of supervising British purchases in the United States soon after the war began. In recognition of his accomplishments in the post, he was made a member of the British Privy Council in the last King's birthday honors list, December 15.

HEADED UNEMPLOYMENT COMMISSION

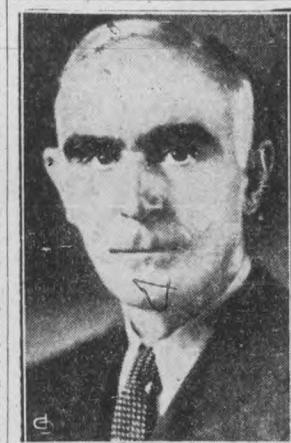

For a period beginning in 1936 Mr. Purvis was chairman of the national employment commission formed by the Ottawa government to deal with unemployment and relief.

Born in England on March 31, 1890, he was left an orphan and thrown on his own resources at 13. He became a master salesman and rose to a dominating position in Canadian manufacturing.

When, through the depression years of the 1930's, Mr. Purvis' company continued to flourish he was regarded as a manufacturer who had some revolutionary formula for success. He was persuaded to deliver a number of addresses outlining his methods. As he explained them they were simple.

MOTTO 'PRODUCE MORE'

He gave his economic motto as:

RT. HON. A. B. PURVIS

"Produce more." In a speech at the Empire Club in Toronto in 1935 he said: "Carving never increased what is on the platter." He stressed that manufacturers should be encouraged to go forward with confidence and take risks in adapting new scientific ideas to the needs of the population.

Purvis' industrial philosophy found expression in welfare plans conducted by Canadian Industries Limited which included employees' representation, vacation, sickness and accident insurance, co-operative savings, pensions, employees' benefit, bonus and no-accident record. Discussing labor he said, "It is a partner in production and not merely a tool."

Mr. Purvis became associated with the Nobel Dynamite Trust Company at an early age and rose rapidly as a salesman in South America and Africa. At the outbreak of the first Great War, when Britain was faced with a shortage of acetone for high explosives, he was sent to the United States to buy all supplies of this chemical available.

FIRST PURCHASER

He spent $25,000,000 in a quick round-up of this material and was the first purchaser of war supplies for Britain in the United States.

It was in this job that he gained the experience which caused him to be placed at the head of the British Purchasing Mission in the United States in this war.

After the last war, Mr. Purvis acted as representative of Imperial Chemical Industries in the United States and in 1924 he moved to Montreal as president of Canadian Explosives Limited. This concern was merged with a number of other organizations under the name of Canadian Industries Limited.

MANY DIRECTORSHIPS

Recognizing his success with Canadian Industries, many Canadian firms sought Mr. Purvis' advice. He became a director of the Bank of Montreal, Bell Telephone Company of Canada, British-American Oil Company, Consolidated Paper Corporation, Dunlop Tire and Rubber Goods Company, General Motors Corporation, Liverpool, London and Globe Insurance Company and the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada. He was a governor of McGill University.

An accomplished pianist, Purvis, even during the years he was busiest, found time for enjoyment of music or of open-air pastimes like golf, skiing, sailing or chopping down trees. He blazed his own ski trails through the St. Margaret's woods in the Laurentians.

He is survived by the widow, the former Margaret Jones of Jamestown, N.Y., and a son.

Human beings possess a very primitive anatomy.—Dr. Verne T. Inman, University of California anatomist.

New .400 Hitter

Williams Confident

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Bos-ton's cocky Ted Williams isn't at all surprised he's leading the major league hitters with a gaudy .408. In fact, he's a little disappointed his average isn't higher.

But now that the Red Sox shrinking violet is on his way, he wants the baseball public to know there's no question about him winding up the American League season as the circuit's first player in 18 years to top the .400 mark.

"Sure I will," remarked the young outfielder as he sprawled on a dressing-room table after yesterday's Sox-Philadelphia Athletics doubleheader. It's going to be a cinch. All it takes is luck, confidence and good hitting—and boy I've got all three."

"I was out of 14 or 15 games this summer with a hurt leg. If I'd been up as many times as some of the others I might have done better. And look at the times I've been walked. Nearly 100. That doesn't put your average down but it robs you of a chance to get hits."

Clouting base hits at a .400 clip is really very simple, he told Ted, it's even though .327 and .344 is the best he's been able to do in his two previous years in the majors.

"You've gotta have luck," declared the 22-year-old thin man. "Of course," he added, seriously, "luck isn't everything. You have to be a reasonably good hitter, too."

If young Williams continues his amazing work at the plate, he'll be the first .400 hitter in the American League since Harry Heilmann batted .403 for Detroit in 1923. Bill Terry of the New York Giants was the last National League player to win the honors. He batted .401 in 1930.

Louis Objects to Paying Alimony

CHICAGO (AP)—Joe Louis, the heavyweight boxing champion, contended yesterday he is unable to pay his estranged wife, the former Marva Trotter, the $200 a week alimony ordered August 1 by Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg.

Louis made the contention in a formal answer to his wife's temporary alimony petition filed before Circuit Judge George Fred Rush. The answer charged Mrs. Louis with "reckless and extravagant spending," and said $100 a week plus an income of $360 a month, from her apartment building was ample for all her needs.

Joe's answer asked modification of Judge Feinberg's order and said it should not have been granted because Louis was not present in court. At the same time, it denied Louis receives a yearly income of $250,000 from fighting. Instead, the petition said, he has received an average of only $56,000, after taxes were deducted, during the past seven years, and only $51,000 last year. It also denied his total income has been about $500,000 annually, as Mrs. Louis claimed.

Nibble Hanover Trotting Victor

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Nibble Hanover, the big, bay trotter from Westbury, N.Y., that broke three world records last month, turned on the speed again Wednesday to win the United States Trotting Association's $4,000 stallion stake in two straight heats at the Illinois state fair grounds.

The Aiken Stable entry won the first heat easily in 2:01. The second heat was 1:59½, the fastest this week here with Nibble Hanover pulling away from Spencer Scott, last year's Hambletonian winner, by a length and a half in the home stretch after a neck and neck duel over half the course.

Colby Hanover, owned by D. Eugene Frey of York, Pa., won both heats in the $2,310 Illinois futurity trot for two-year-olds. In the second heat he trotted the mile in 2:04½, announced as the fastest time this season by two-year-old trotters. Colby Hanover is eligible for next year's Hambletonian.

SOLDIERS' FAMILIES ASK MORE MONEY

VANCOUVER (CP)—A cost of living bonus for the families of private soldiers is being sought by the women's committee of the British Columbia Regiment, Duke of Connaught's Own Rifles, in a letter to the Defence Department's dependents' allowance board.

"It is most gratifying to read that civil service employees are to receive a cost of living bonus," the letter states, "and as the soldiers who are defending Canada are also government employees, it is reasonable to suppose that their families will be compensated in like manner."

The committee maintains that it is impossible for the family of a private soldier to meet the rising cost of living on the present allowance.

BRITISH WIPE OUT AXIS GARRISON

CAIRO (AP)—A whole Axis garrison on the siege ring around Tobruk has been wiped out by a British fighting patrol from the Libyan port, British Middle East headquarters announced today.

The strong point on the siege line was surprised Wednesday night, the communique said, the patrol then striking further into the Axis positions to attack "strong working parties" with grenades and light machine-gun fire.

British patrols again were active yesterday in the Egyptian-Libyan frontier area and artillery fire struck effectively two Axis working parties in the desert although heavy dust storms hampered forays out of Tobruk, the communique said.

Jap Appointment

TOKYO (AP)—Eiji Amau, former Japanese ambassador to Italy, was appointed today to the post of vice-minister of foreign affairs.

Amau, 54, is known as father of "the Amau statement," enunciating a hands-off China policy, given out in 1935 when Britain sent a financial mission to China, headed by Sir Frederick Leith-Ross.

He went to Rome as Japan's ambassador in October, 1939, and was called home a year later.

Beaverbrook

'Our Youth Inexhaustible'; Britain Needs Munitions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lord Beaverbrook, Britain's dynamic minister of supply, wasn't going to be caught about whether American manpower was needed by Britain to win the war.

At a press conference in the dignified British embassy, the wiry little Canadian-born peer completely sidestepped the question. He refused to answer directly, merely saying, "Britain needs munitions and food for many men."

As to airplane pilots, he declared the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan is "getting on very swiftly" and "the youth of the Empire is inexhaustible."

Beaverbrook flew here from the sea conference between Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt. He refused to say where the meeting had taken place, whether Harry Hopkins was present.

The interview was a rapid-fire one, and Lord Beaverbrook showed he understands newspapermen.

He described himself as "the biggest buyer on the cuff you've ever seen."

'WE NEED MORE'

"We have had hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of benefit under the lend-lease program," he said, "but we need more," naming tanks, planes (particularly bombers) and food.

"You've been very generous," Lord Beaverbrook said, sticking exclusively to supply matters. "But we need still more from you. Remember that we are engaged in a terrific conflict with an enemy that is confident, an enemy well organized, an enemy who has been preparing for years to fight."

"If you expect us to do as well as we have done, send us as much as you can and as swiftly as possible, under the generous terms of the Lend-Lease Act."

Planes?

"Yes, we want bombers. We've had wonderful results from your beautiful American bombers. In fact I should say that the best bombers we have come from the United States."

Tanks?

"We have plenty of tank divisions and tank brigades but, despite the fact that we have produced a great many, we haven't got enough tanks. We want many."

FOOD?

"We're working our men very hard, long hours and on Sunday, and they require lots of food. We like—and need—bacon and beef and cheese—which our agricultural workers live on—and other food supplies. The British public is feeding much better on your account. You've been very generous. But we need more."

When asked whether Britain expects to win the war in the air, Lord Beaverbrook stuck out his jaw, glowered, and exclaimed:

NOT BEATEN

"Bombing from the air didn't beat us!"

All American planes shipped to Britain have now been put to good use, Lord Beaverbrook declared, although there was some delay in utilizing some models because of the necessity of re-modelling them to carry British machine guns.

The question was put to Lord Beaverbrook—formerly Minister for Aircraft—because of rumors that some American planes had been found not suitable for aerial warfare under existing conditions.

During the time he was Minister for Aircraft, Lord Beaverbrook revealed, "we received 2,200 planes from the United States. Many had to be re-modelled to carry British machine guns for our purposes, but by the time I left 1,200 had been put in service by the R.A.F. and since then all have been put to good use."

'Shadow Larder' Now Complete

LONDON (CP)—Food Minister Lord Woolton announced today Britain's "shadow larder" is ready.

He said Prime Minister Churchill had instructed him to have all emergency arrangements ready by September 1, the date the Prime Minister has given as the zero hour for a possible invasion attempt by the Germans.

Preparations have been made to deal with conditions that might arise in event of invasion by sea or air in any part of the British Isles and for dealing with "the most severe blitz our most pessimistic imagination could devise," Lord Woolton said.

He said the arrangements included creation of a hundred "watertight" food areas throughout the country, each independent of outside help as regards supplies; the setting up of cooking depots outside large towns, and plans for protection of food from gas.

Twenty-two convoys of mobile canteens of the Queen's messenger service are the first line of defence in event of intense raids, the Food Minister added.

WEDDINGSCHAPMAN—HUNTLEY

Of interest to friends in Victoria is the announcement of the wedding in Winnipeg August 5 of Maryon Furness, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Huntley, Winnipeg, to Mr. Victor Lennie Chapman, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Chapman, Shelbourne Street, Victoria. In a setting of palms, ferns and varietal gladioli arranged in the home of the bride's parents, Waverley Street, Professor Fletcher Argue of the University of Manitoba, an old family friend, performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. David Johnstone. The wedding music was played by Mrs. M. B. Henry. During the signing of the register Flora Matheson Goulden, Winnipeg's outstanding violinist, played a solo.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ice-blue gown of lace and net. The bodice of fine French lace, featured a sweetheart neckline and large puff sleeves. The net skirt fell in folds to the floor from the fitted waistline. She wore a Mary Queen of Scots head-dress, with fingertip veil and carried a colonial bouquet of Briarcliffe roses and sweet peas.

The reception was held on the lawn. Mr. and Mrs. Chapman left by train for Minaki, Ont., for their honeymoon.

For going away the bride wore a tailored dress of ashes of roses silk jersey, with short sleeves and quilted trimming. Her frock was topped by a matching light-weight woolen coat with quilted lapels. Her large-brimmed navy felt sailor was trimmed with ashes of roses grosgrain ribbon. She wore a corsage of gardenias.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Manitoba and the groom of the University of British Columbia. Later in August they will return to the coast and will make their home in Chilliwack, where the groom is a member of the high school staff.

DUNAWAY—RANKIN
Archdeacon Robert Connell officiated at the pretty ceremony at St. Matthias' Church, Foul Bay, last evening, which united in marriage Helen Margaret, second daughter of Mrs. M. Rankin, Beaver Lake Road, Royal Oak, and Mr. Gordon H. Dunaway, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. O. Dunaway, Chamberlain Street. Gladioli, cosmos and fern were arranged by friends of the bride before the chancel rails and on the altar. The church organist played the wedding marches. The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. John Rankin, wore a becoming frock of dusty pink triple sheer with bracelet-length sleeves, a white straw picture hat, trimmed with white velvet flowers, and white accessories. She carried a bouquet of white cactus, dahlias, opelia rosebuds and fern.

Miss Noreen Rankin was her sister's only attendant, wearing a navy blue marquisette frock piped in white and a white picture hat and white accessories. Her bouquet was peach gladioli and fern.

Mr. William Dunaway, brother of the groom, was best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. Baskets of gladioli, blue delphiniums and pink asters were arranged throughout the rooms. Mrs. Rankin received in a turquoise blue dress with black sheer redingote and turquoise blue hat and a corsage bouquet of sweet peas. She was assisted by Mrs. Dunaway in a dusty rose crepe dress with black hat and accessories and a corsage bouquet of gladioli tips.

The refreshment table, covered with a handsome hand-made Madeira cloth, was centred with a crystal bowl of mauve and pink sweet peas on a mirror base flanked with tall pink tapers in silver holders and four small crystal vases filled with sweet peas at each corner. A two-tiered wedding cake topped with a silver vase of sweet peas, flanked with tall white tapers in crystal holders, was set on a side table. Mr. T. T. Hutchison, a friend of the bride's family, proposed the toast to the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunaway left on the midnight boat for a motor trip to the interior. For traveling the bride donned a black tailored coat over her wedding dress and wore a corsage bouquet of gardenias. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Dunaway will reside in Duncan.

LINVILLE—JARDINE

At a quiet ceremony in the vestry of the Metropolitan United Church last night, Rev. A. E. Whitehouse, D.D., united in marriage Winnifred Nellie, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Jardine, Nelson, and Mr. Richard Edward Linville, only son of Mr.

and Mrs. E. E. Linville, Trail.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. E. Shadbolt, an old family friend, wore a powder blue afternoon frock with neckline, sleeves and pocket trimmed with white Valenciennes lace. Her wide-brimmed hat and accessories were white, and she carried a Colonial bouquet of pink roses, snapdragons and carnations. Mrs. F. G. Savage, the matron of honor, wore a smart red and white silk suit, with a white hat and accessories, and a corsage bouquet of white carnations. Mr. Savage was best man.

About 30 guests were later entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Shadbolt, Musgrave Street, where the guests were welcomed by the bride and groom standing beneath a floral arch with a large horseshoe tied with lovers' knots on top, in a setting of mixed garden flowers. Lighted pink and mauve tapers in silver holders stood on either side of the two-tiered cake which centred the attractively-appointed supper table. Mrs. Shadbolt was gownned in a nut brown figured ensemble with a white hat, and a corsage bouquet of white gladioli. For a honeymoon on the mainland, en route to Trail, where Mr. and Mrs. Linville will make their home, the bride left in a black and white pin-striped suit with white accessories.

Fresh Fruit Pies, Ice Cream—Real Company Dish

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

FRESH fruit pies always make dinner a feast for the men of the family. If the budget will permit, add vanilla ice cream to the pie serving. That's good Canadian eating.

Blueberries make vivid and delicious desserts. Here's an old-fashioned recipe:

Blueberry Flummery (Serves 4)

Two cups fresh blueberry juice, 1/2 cup sugar, pinch salt, 3 tablespoons cornstarch, 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Cook blueberries with a little water. Rub through sieve to get the juice. Measure exactly 2 cups.

Combine sugar, cornstarch and salt. Slowly stir in the blueberry juice. Cook in double boiler for about 20 minutes. Stir constantly until thickened, then afterwards occasionally. Add the lemon juice. Pour into glass serving dish. Chill. Serve with plain or whipped cream.

The Danish dish called Rodgrød turns up every year at this time. Served very cold with thick cream, it is a wonderful hot weather dessert.

Rodgrød (Serves 4 to 6)

One quart fresh currants, 1 pint fresh red raspberries, 1 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt.

Wash currants and raspberries. Add 1/2 cup water and simmer gently until all juice is extracted from fruit, about 10 minutes. Strain through fine cloth. Mix sugar, salt and cornstarch. Add to juice. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. When thickened, clear and bubbly, remove and chill. Serve very cold with chilled cream.

Fruit Melange

Strips cup sugar, 1 cup water, one cup of lemon or orange rind, fresh fruit.

Cook sugar, water and lemon or orange rind together about five minutes. Add a few raspberries, blackberries and slices of peaches and pears and continue to simmer until fruit is slightly tender. Chill before serving. Serve in tall sherbet glasses. A refreshing dessert.

Tomorrow's Menu

Breakfast — Sliced peaches, cream or top milk, Spanish omelet, whole-wheat toast, coffee, milk.

Dinner — Oven-fried chicken, cream gravy, parsley potatoes, green corn, watercress and tomato salad, blueberry flummery, coffee, milk.

Supper — Cream of chicken and corn soup in cups, celery and radishes, enriched bread toast, Rodgrød, lemon sponge cake, tea, milk.

Gen. Le Gentilhomme Named in Africa

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle issued a decree today appointing Gen. Paul le Gentilhomme commander-in-chief of Free French forces in Africa.

Le Gentilhomme led the De Gaulle troops which helped take Damascus, Syria, in the recent British-Free French occupation of the Levant States. His arm was broken when an aerial bomb exploded near him early in the campaign.

The general commanded allied forces in French and British Somaliland until the fall of France.

Social and Personal

Mrs. Ernest Rooke is visiting her mother, Mrs. L. G. Crawford, Vancouver, and was the guest of honor Monday at a tea party in the Hotel Georgia.

Berry, reported that $70 had been presented to the Red Cross, this being the result of the garden party held in July and donations to the same fund.

During the afternoon the lucky number for the firescreen made and donated by Capt. E. G. Alcock was drawn. Mrs. J. O. Little, Violet Avenue, held the winning ticket. Members were reminded to send surplus fruit to the market building to be made into jam to be used by the forces.

Mrs. F. Stacey and Mrs. J. C. Cudemore were hostesses. The September meeting will be held in the hall. Mrs. R. Wilkinson will be hostess.

GREAT WHALE RIVER (CP)

—Two Hudson's Bay Company officials, a Toronto doctor and two airmen dined on iron rations today at Richmond Gulf, eight miles north of this settlement on the east coast of Hudson Bay, after their airplane floats were damaged.

Another airplane is carrying repairs to the stranded craft, but will probably not arrive until tomorrow as it will spend tonight at East Main, 25 miles south of here. The Hudson's Bay officials, P.

A. Chester, manager, and R. H. Cheshire, east fur trade manager, will fly out in the repair plane if their own craft cannot be quickly put into service. Dr. F. F. Tisdall, Toronto nutrition expert, is one of the party. They are accompanied by a pilot and a mechanic.

Letters to the Editor

CBC 'FIASCO'

Your editorial "Too Early to Get Up" should be followed by a protest from every radio listener in B.C. As a visitor I would not have believed that such a "fiasco of management" would be tolerated here, although on the prairies we are now getting quite accustomed to this sort of service from the CBC. You are, however, very fortunate here in being able to tune in on Seattle stations, where they are alive to news of world importance. I was able to get the original broadcast by Mr. Atlee over NBC from Seattle, followed by comments by leading Americans.

E. D. MUNN.

COMPLETE BLACKOUT

The wording "complete blackout" is really misleading as some people believe that all that is required in a blackout is to simply switch off all lights; and to state it was a "complete success" with the exception of one or two lights showing—one light in one room being sufficient to signal an enemy—is incorrect.

Also to request cyclists to dim lights when 75 per cent still ride about after dark without any lights, courting death, was unheeded.

Memories of last war's blackout and this one, prove that a "complete blackout" would be for lights to be on in our homes, but with every corner of every window completely and adequately covered—and this meant covering venetian blinds too—with traffic going as usual with lights (and traffic lights) reduced to a narrow strip and traffic only ceasing when an air raid was in progress.

M. H. CRISFORD.

2845 The Rise.

CBC INEFFICIENCY

Your comment on the attitude of the CBC in failing to carry the broadcast of Major Atlee's speech at 7 a.m. yesterday is timely, but it needs to be more strongly protested against. Just in the last two weeks we have received telegrams from Ottawa stating that our guest refugee child would hear her mother and dad speaking to her from Sunderland, England. This girl knows what it is to be bombed and spend many nights a week in the air-raid shelters.

The girl naturally was all keyed up and preferred to hear her mother speak to her. I guess there are many more children like her.

There was to be a rebroadcast on the following Sunday. When the time came round, the announcer said there was no more time for any more. It would be continued next Sunday. Three weeks will have passed now.

They make no apologies for their omissions and mistakes. It's time for an inquiry into their operations and the license fee reduced to $1 a year and no more.

E. TOWNSEND.

DARWIN vs. BRUCE HUTCHISON

This letter is to thank Bruce Hutchison for his column on Darwinism. The more one learns of the wonders of the working of the law of cause and effect, especially in countless minute details, the more one is convinced of the existence of an Infinite Being—God. We were given free will. No scientist has been able to discover the beginning of everything of life. The allegorical story in Genesis is quite consistent with the discoveries of scientists.

ALICE COLCLOUGH.

MAELSTROM AND RUSSIA
Bernard Shaw, on his 85th birthday, pointed out that by the irony of fate, Britain and America had been catapulted into the arms of Russia, a situation exclusively amusing for this prince of jesters.

The reactions are interesting. Some people are quite comic and even say solemnly that the Russians are beginning to go to church. A laugh! They want to cover up. No one can fail to remember that the late British Premier, after accepting the hospitality of Hitler and Mussolini, treated Stalin with contempture even when seeking his alliance, surely the height of tactless stupidity; and even the present leaders of the democracies ungraciously interpose their gratitude for Russia's help with over-emphatic disclaimers of any further sympathy with her except in that she is the latest victim of Hitler. It is strongly reminiscent of "the mote" and "the beam," for on our own records, we are in no position to look down on Russia.

As for religion, surely Stalin is better than Rasputin. As for peace, did we not turn down Litvinoff's proposals for total disarmament? As for liberty, Russia, unlike the British and the Americans and the Vatican, tried to help free Spain, not her enemy, Franco. We excluded Russia from the council table at Munich; but, as Shaw maliciously stresses, we shall not be able to exclude her from the far more important councils to be held when Hitler is down and out.

Public and private opinion has been so sanctimonious about Russia all along that there are few today who can escape wriggling if they are to readjust their parts to the drama of history. The author of "Maelstrom" is one of the lucky few. Writing two years ago, in August, 1939, he regretted the loss of Russia's help due to British policy at that time. He pointed out that Russia, with all her faults (and who is faultless?) was on the upgrade, while the Nazis were reverting to barbarism. He pilloried Buchman's "Thank God for Adolf Hitler."

To my thinking, that is a feather in his cap. Mr. Munro, for one, has nothing to recant. He must be pleased to see his wishes fulfilled and Russia at long last on the same side as Britain and America, where, but for incredible mismanagement and inveterate bigotry, she should have been long ago. It would have saved millions of lives, whose loss is chargeable to the bigots as much as to the tyrants.

Over All Lines

"He who fights and runs away—" is a maxim widely enough quoted, but some Victorians dislike regarding it as an excuse for the playing of Retreat each week-night in Parliament Square.

They needn't. Retreat is played now merely to keep alive an old tradition and picturesque ceremony and does not symbolize any desire of Canada's troops to withdraw from conflict.

The explanation of the ceremony goes back to days when England's armies were maintained by lords, when battles were postponed on account of darkness, and when the loss of colors meant the loss of a battle.

Fighting ended at sundown by agreement of the officers, and with musicians in attendance, the colors of a regiment were turned over to the sponsor of the unit for safekeeping until morning. This action is the basis of the ritual performed today.

Scenes of fire fighting in British Columbia, many of them taken on the fire lines of such devastating conflagrations as the Campbell River fire of 1938 are included in the films which will be shown at the Victoria Fair, September 6 to 13. This section

The Government hopes to avoid rationing: conservation can help counteract the threatened shortage. So it asks you to do your part voluntarily—to keep our planes in the air, our ships at sea, our armies moving, and our munitions plants going full speed.

Have foresight. Sign the "50/50" pledge. Cut your mileage to cut your consumption in half. Cut open road speed from 60 to 40. Don't be a jack-rabbit starter. Drive others. Let them drive you. Use one car where two were used before. Save today to save tomorrow.

It is also vitally important that you reduce the use of domestic and commercial fuel oil.

By PÉTE SALLAWAY

IF DAME RUMOR is correct, Lefty O'Doul will be the new manager of the New York Giants, colorful National League ball club. Report yesterday out of Gotham told of how plans were going ahead for reconstruction of the Polo Grounds. If O'Doul takes the New York post he will likely be accompanied by two of his latest developments with the San Francisco Seals of the Coast League. They are Ferris Fain and Froilan Fernandez, the former a first baseman and Fernandez a shortstop. These two lads are just about the pick of the Coast circuit and would prove a big help in the Giants' rebuilding program.

Owner Charley Graham of the Seals has placed a $100,000 price tag on Fain. The Boston Red Sox are interested in him as a replacement for Jimmy Foxx, now on the road to retirement. Scouts of the New York Yankees have trailed Fain for weeks. So have boys from the Chicago Cubs, Pittsburgh Pirates and Cleveland Indians. But O'Doul is reported to be doing some scouting for himself. And Fain and Fernandez would like to ride along with O'Doul, the man who taught them the business.

Fain is batting around .346 in the Coast League and O'Doul describes him as follows: "Fain will be another George Sisler."

If Fain has any fair share of George Harold Sisler's ability, he'll do with considerable to spare, and O'Doul doubts that there are more than two first basemen in the big show as capable or as cocky. That's quite a statement when you look at Joe Kuhel, George McQuinn, Dolph Camilli, Elby Fletcher, Babe Dahlgren, Dick Siebert and Johnny Sturm.

Joe Louis says he has no intention of retiring following the defence of his championship against Lou Nova. Louis points out that Promoter Mike Jacobs, who admits being past 60, isn't thinking of quitting. If Jacobs can continue to take it, Louis guesses he can go on for a while yet.

Louis points out, however, that the business is becoming rather tough on Jack Blackburn, his veteran trainer and second.

"Chapman can't climb them ring steps like he used to," smiles the Brown Bomber. "Guess I'll have to try to shorten up my fights so as to make it easier on the old boy. I sure made him work overtime in the fight with Billy Conn."

Louis says that in a fight between Conn and Nova, he'd pick the Pittsburgh kid who gave him so much trouble.

"Nova is bigger and stronger, perhaps," explains Smokey Joe, "but he's also easier to hit."

Louis calls 'em as he sees 'em, and doesn't hesitate to express his views, if asked.

The Negro's finest quality is his refreshing honesty.

Boxla Final Tonight

Teams Confident

Alerts and Jokers parade out on the floor at the Victoria Sports Centre this evening to play the sixth of a best of five series in the city semifinals as the present muddle into which local boxla affairs have submerged remains as yet unsolved. The boys are all set to give each other the works at 8.30. At 7 the junior playoff between McLean's Bakery and Owl Drug will resume. The senior game may or may not decide who is to play the Bays in the final and in the junior fixture Owl Drug will have to pull the win sign out of their bag of strategies to stay in the running.

Here is the senior set-up. The Alerts go out on the floor to play the game under protest, because there is an Alert appeal on the third game protest given to the Jokers still to be passed on by the B.C. Lacrosse Association in Vancouver. If that appeal is upheld tonight's game will be superfluous, whatever the result, but manager Rich Williams wants to take no chances on insulting the mainland moguls who might reason thus: "The Alerts have sent us an appeal that might decide the series without a sixth game." That is the reason why Alerts are playing under protest.

If the Jokers win and the appeal is turned down they win the series, but if the appeal is upheld the Alerts still win. That is the state of affairs wound around tonight's fixture. The Jokers have to win in any case, then pray for vently that the appeal does not find favor on the mainland. The Alerts want to win so as not to take any unnecessary chances, but if they do lose they can still pin hope on the Vancouver decision.

However, the contest should be a stinger. Both teams will be sending full line-ups on the floor and are definitely out to win.

Teams follow: Alerts—Bryant, Patrick, McDonald, Thompson, Noel, K. O. V. Charick, Coates, A. Ovcharick, Williams, Pickford, Malcolm, Robinson and Robbins.

Jokers—W. Andrews, S. Andrews, Turner, Harding, Ludbrook, Cavell, Millen, Caydzen, W. Allen, Uttke, Mair, Minns, R. Allen, Dale and Pridham.

McLean's Bakery—Taylor, Watson, Rhodes, Porter, Evans, Popham, Ransom, Jones, Lea, McCaghey, Lott, Braithwaite, Bishop and Brown.

Giddings added that an examination showed the animal's heart was dilated to three times normal on one side, but the other was withered and subnormal. The owner said he refused $8,000 for Undisturbed last fall.

UPLANDS GOLF
The men of Uplands Golf Club will stage a tombstone competition on Sunday. Competitors will select their own opponents and arrange their own starting times. The starter will supply the score cards with handicap and accept the entry fee.

Duval Fights In Main Event

Main event of tonight's outdoor fight card at the Cyclodrome, Douglas Street, will see Roy Duval, Royal Oak, trade punches with George McDonald, Bralorne, runner-up in a golden gloves tournament. They will fight at 135 pounds, over three two-minute rounds.

Semiwind-up boxing bout will be between sailor Rayson, Prince Albert, and soldier Witla of Vernon. They will also step three rounds. Third fight will bring together Jack McMillan and Tom Bradley, a pair of local 95 pounders. Boys from the Victoria Boys' Hobby Club will appear in other preliminaries.

Top wrestling bout will see Tiger Goldstick tackle Ram Singh in a one-fall finish affair. Johnny Bartell and Bing Quon will grapple over four rounds, as will Roy Maycock and Bill Brace.

Louis Callan will referee. First bout at 8.

V.M.D. Victory Evens Playoffs

Grabbing a first-inning lead of two runs V.M.D. softballers last night evened up the two out of three inter-sectional playoffs with a 9 to 4 win over the Chinese Recreation Club. The third and deciding game will be played to night at Victoria West Park.

Rosy McLellan worked on the mound for the winners pitching steady ball, allowing seven scattered base hits, mostly singles, while his teammates collected nine bingles and bunched them.

The machinery depot took a 2 to 0 lead in the first inning, increased it to 4 to 0 in the third and then were blanked for the next three sessions while the Chinese garnered three runs to make the score 4 to 3. However, the winners put all and sundry in the bag in the seventh with a four-run blitz while the losers collected one in their half of this inning.

Beside the playoff game at Victoria West Park, Cardinals will play Hunt's Garage in the second game of the women's playoff at Central Park. The garage girls won the first at Sidney Wednesday night.

Nova Lays Claim To New Punches

NEW YORK (AP)—The late Marquis of Queensbury, who probably turned over in his grave when Lou Nova introduced yoga and the cosmic punch to the prize ring, should positively leap right out of his coffin when he hears the California husky's latest.

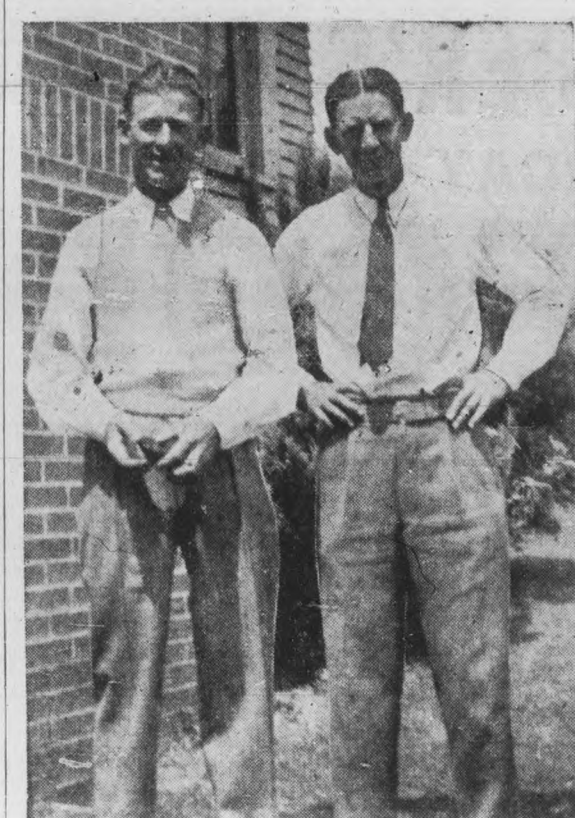

Looking big and strong from six weeks of roughing it, Nova reached town yesterday to start serious work for his heavyweight championship bid, and all but floored the experts with a detailed description of what he is getting ready as a greeting for Joe Louis in the Yankee Stadium September 19.

The fellow who tried yoga to beat Max Baer once, and then whipped him again with what he mysteriously insisted was a cosmic punch last winter, seriously revealed that during his last six weeks in the Maine woods he perfected a whole series of socks for the Bomber. Reading from left to right, this stock in trade includes:

1. The shock punch, a straight blow.
2. The pull punch, a "rounded-wallopp," apparently a form of hook.
3. The bullet punch, a sharp straight punch which he expects to toss at Joe with considerable success.

"These are variations of the cosmic punch," Nova said.

Seek Western Title

When the 72-hole western Canada open golf championship gets under way at the Shaughnessy Heights Club, Vancouver, on Aug. 21 for three days, two of the most feared of the visiting professionals will be the Zimmerman brothers of Portland, seen above. Emery, left, and Al have campaigned all over the tournaments in Victoria, making a good showing in many of the major tournaments. Victoria will be well represented in the affair with Phil Taylor, Walter Gravin, Joe Pryke and Freddy Burns, four local pros, scheduled to take part, along with several Victoria amateurs. The tournament is being staged in aid of the Queen's Canadian Fund for British air aid victims.

Will Pitch Here

Hollywood reached Seattle's Dick Barrett for 17 hits and an 8 to 7 victory in Coast League play last night but received a mighty scare in the eighth and ninth innings when pitching wildness almost allowed the Rainiers to catch up in a four-run spurt. Three hurlers faced the Rainiers in the final frame. Wayne Osborne walked the first man, immediately being relieved by Fred Gay who walked three more to force in one or two runs. He was in turn relieved by Frank Dasso who struck out the last man. Les Scarsella, Rainier first baseman, collected two homers with one on and two singles.

Ray Harrell, former Portland hurler who recently joined San Francisco, proved he could still control the ball with a five-hit pitching job blanking the league-leading Sacramento Solons and giving the Seals a 2 to 0 victory. At Portland, Forrest Orrell restricted Oakland to five hits to win easily 5 to 1 and give Portland a 3 to 1 series lead.

Sweep Two Games With Washington

The musical comedy currently occupying the stage of the National League theatre has taken the spotlight away from New York Yankees and the rest of the American League in the last couple of weeks.

But between acts, as it were, in the show starring the St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers, it has been possible to discover that the Yankees are still alive and blasting.

Yesterday, while the Dodgers and Cardinals had an open date, the Yankees walloped Washington Senators in a doubleheader, 7 to 0 and 10 to 3, to add another full game to their lead.

Cleveland Indians, meanwhile, battled 10 innings to a 3 to 3 tie with the last-place St. Louis Browns. The third-place Boston Red Sox divided a batting-practice doubleheader with Philadelphia Athletics. Jimmy Foxx returned to action and won the first game for Boston, 11 to 8, with a three-run homer in the 11th inning. The A's won the second 10 to 8 with two lousy four-run rallies.

Chicago White Sox swept their doubleheader from Detroit Tigers 3 to 1 and 3 to 0 in a pair of fine pitching duels. Lefty Thornton Led captured his 15th victory in the first game. Johnny Humphries held the Tigers to six hits in the nightcap, while the Sox made 8.

Only two games were played in the National League.

Chicago Cubs sent Pittsburgh Pirates staggering to their fourth straight defeat 6 to 2. Fiddler Bill McGee finally broke into the victory column as New York beat Boston Braves 4 to 3. McGee allowed only seven hits.

Charity Horse Show, September 11 Program Announced

With a 15-event program, plans are going ahead for the big horse show to be staged at the Willows on September 11, starting at 8. The exhibition will be staged by the Victoria Riding Club, under the sponsorship of the Victoria Women's Institute, in aid of the Lord Mayor's Fund for British bomb victims.

Tickets have already gone on sale and by show time the sponsors are certain a packed house will have been assured. It will be a one-night show.

Mrs. Don Carley of the riding club stated today the entry list will include a number of prominent horses and riders from the mainland. Another feature will be the appearance of several crack-thoroughbreds from Kamloops.

Entries will close on September 4 and should be sent to the secretary, W. Beek, 376 Cook Street. Post entries will be accepted. JAILED FOR GIVING INDIANS LIQUOR

MERRITT (CP) — Joseph G. Landsay, 22, French Canadian who has been working on a farm at Nicola, near here, has been sentenced to six months in jail without option of a fine. He pleaded guilty before G. C. Mortimer, J.P., to supplying liquor to Indians.

Landsay was a witness at the inquest into the death of Lena Boston, Indian woman who died of injuries following a drinking party. He said he was approached by the Indians who asked him to buy them liquor.

Louis Oppenheim, 35-year-old Indian, has been charged with the woman's murder.

Deputies Named For Soldier Vote

Special supervising deputies have been appointed by the government to make arrangements for taking the Active Service Force vote at the general election in October. They will leave for various points in Canada before the end of the month to make preliminary plans.

One man has been assigned to each military district, according to Capt. W. R. Webster, who is in charge of active service voting. Their task is to arrange for polls at any place in Canada outside B.C. where British Columbians may be stationed in sufficient numbers to warrant a poll. They will also select deputy returning officers from men in the forces.

The supervising deputies are all men who fought in the last war and who saw service in the actual theatres of conflict. They were engaged from ex-service organizations.

Following are the districts to which they have been assigned: No. 1, F. W. Linington, Vancouver; No. 2, J. A. Neary, Victoria; No. 3, Dr. John L. MacDougall, Vancouver; No. 4, Robert Macaulay, Vancouver; No. 5, Major Guy Boyer, Fawn, B.C.; No. 7, Major C. H. Hartt, Vancouver; No. 6, James F. McLeod, Vancouver; No. 10, Thomas J. McCloskey, New Westminster; No. 12, George Butcher, Victoria; No. 13, William Childs, Victoria.

Voting by the service men will start seven days before the general poll in the province and will continue for three days, but the special envelopes in which their votes are sealed will not be opened until the night of election day. In Canada there will be three counting centres, one at Toronto in charge of J. R. Stewart of Victoria; another at Halifax under Capt. G. E. Appelbe of Vancouver, and the third at Regina under John Bennet of Vancouver.

The vote in Great Britain will be taken under supervision of W. A. McAdam, acting agent-general, and it will not be necessary to send any advance officers to England, Capt. Webster said.

DISREGARD OF GOD BROUGHT CHAOS

QUEBEC (CP)—When "duty towards one's country is placed after the ideologies of the country, then the Quislings and the gauleiters are born," R. W. Keyserlingk, general manager of the British United Press in Canada, said in an address to the annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association.

"There is nothing more dangerous for a country," he said, "than political animosities, than the political creeds built into ideologies and rated more important than national responsibility, and more imperious than patriotism."

Keyserlingk said it should not be forgotten that in Europe "the dominating factor which brought about chaos was the disregard of God. The atheists and the skeptics by their propaganda emptied the minds and the hearts of the people, but the youths which they had dechristianized were not satisfied with believing in nothing."

"In Germany faith in God was replaced by a new creed, that of the race, of blood and of the German soil. In this reaction, extreme nationalism surged in Europe."

Speeders Fined

Nine motorists were fined $10 each in Saanich Police Court yesterday for speeding.

Six were caught exceeding the 30 miles per hour limit through the village of Saanichton and three were stopped for going over 20 miles an hour through the Cordova Bay settlement.

Lum Tan, a Chinese vegetable gardener, was fined $20 for building a shack without first securing a building permit.

A woman resident of the municipality was fined $5 for not cutting noxious weeds growing on her property.

A motorist was fined $5 for not having a driver's license.

Loudon Seniors Golf Champ

Defeats Schwengers
Second Straight Year

Staging one of the greatest comebacks in the history of the competition, Dr. J. P. Loudon, Yakima, defeated Bernie Schwengers, Victoria, at the 19th hole in the final of the grand championship of the 19th annual Seniors' Northwest Golf Association tournament at the Victoria Golf Club today.

It was Loudon's second successive championship and the second straight year he has beaten Schwengers in the final. Last year he won on the 18th green. By his victory Loudon became the third veteran in the history of the association to win the crown twice consecutively. The others were J. E. Wilson and Hon. John Hart, both of Victoria.

Loudon was 3 down at the 11th. After winning back two holes he saw Schwengers become down two at the 16th. The doctor rallied to win the 17th and 18th, squaring the match, and go on to take the first extra hole with a par 5, when Schwengers missed a 3-foot putt.

The finalists failed to shoot the same brand of golf that marked yesterday's semifinals, Loudon having an 80 and Schwengers an 81.

Cars driven by Senator G. H. Barnard, 1462 Rockland Avenue, and S. G. Jones, Sooke, collided on View Street near Douglas Street yesterday. The Jones car was backing from a driveway when the accident occurred. Damage was slight.

A by-law compelling men's and boys' clothing and furnishings shops to close at 6 p.m. on Saturdays is sought in a petition received at the City Hall today. The petition is signed by 15 licensed occupants of such shops in the city.

Seven motorists were fined $2.50 each in City Police Court today for parking over the hour in restricted zones, for parking over 12 inches from the curb and for parking in prohibited areas. Another motorist was fined $10 when he pleaded guilty to speeding.

A request that attention be given to the repairing of David Street, between Turner and Bridge Street, is contained in a letter received at the City Hall today from the Dalziel Box Company Ltd. "The work done must be more than a patch job," says the letter.

City firemen extinguished a grass fire off Richardson Street at noon today and a fire in a street car on Yates Street at 6 this morning. The Saanich department attended grass and bush fires on Admirals Road at 4.20 yesterday afternoon and on Central Saanich Road at 5.40 last evening.

Harold George Harris was fined $50 or one month in jail when found guilty by Magistrate H. C. Hall in City Police Court today of assaulting Fusilier Elwyn R. Ball. The charge arose from a fight which took place in the St. James Cafe, Johnson Street, in which Ball received a cut over the eye. Sergeant John Blackstock and Constable Deans Blackstock of the city police gave evidence of stopping the fight between the two men. J. Patton represented the accused.

MATRON SMELLIE
EXPECTED HERE

Women's organizations are keenly interested in the arrival here of Miss Elizabeth Smellie, matron-in-chief of the Canadian Army Nursing Sisters, who has been appointed to organize the enlistment of women for service with the Canadian Women's Army Corps.

Miss Smellie left Ottawa yesterday by plane for Victoria and was expected here today. She was not aboard the trans-Canada plane reaching Vancouver at noon and no reservation had been made for her on the Canadian Airways flying boat arriving here at 12.30.

Defence Minister J. L. Ralston, in announcing the appointment of Miss Smellie, placed the number of women to be enlisted for the C.W.A.C. at 830, but added that the force would eventually require 1,500 women between the ages of 21 and 40.

The enlistment of women for service with the forces will commence September 1.

Board Hears
Zoning Appeals

The zoning board of appeal gave conditional approval yesterday to plans and specifications of J. C. Browne for conversion of 1216 Styles Street into a two-family dwelling.

Permission was granted I. C. Nicholls to build a private garage at the northeast corner of Prior Street and Hillside Avenue. Plans of N. Addams to convert 2346 Trent Street into a two-family dwelling were approved. W. Rowlandson was given permission to erect a private garage at 2221 Lydia Street.

The zoning board of appeal will meet again on August 28.

Crash Kills Woman

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Olive Craig, 79, died in hospital today from injuries suffered Sunday when an automobile in which she was driving was in collision with another vehicle in nearby Burnaby municipality. Five others were injured in the accident.

Worker's Wife
To Launch Ship

Mrs. Walter R. Ayton, 144 Ontario Street, wife of an electrician's helper working on ships at Yarrow's Ltd., will have the thrill of her life when she christens the next vessel to be sent afloat at the company's Esquimalt plant.

Mrs. Ayton was chosen by lot today to perform the ceremony. "Am I? For goodness sake," she delightedly gasped Mrs. Ayton when informed by the Times by phone. "How lovely, I consider it a great honor."

Married employees of the yard had been asked to place their names in a sealed box so that the sponsor could be chosen fairly at a public drawing. The idea of a workman's wife christening the ship came from Norman A. Yarrow, managing director.

At a ceremony held at noon today in the boiler-shop of the plant the sealed box was opened in the presence of a large attendance of interested employees. The contents of the box were emptied into a wooden replica of the type of hat worn by Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, and after all the slips of paper had been well shaken up, D. M. Williams, who operates the company's canteen, and who is blind, drew out the name that determined the lady who would sponsor the ship.

The hat, made of wood by the workmen at the plant, a novel piece of haberdashery, had a large white "V for Victory" sign on the crown.

The width of the brim, oval shaped, was 19½ by 17½ inches. The assembled workers cheered heartily as the name of the sponsor was announced. This will be the first time that the wife of one of the local workmen will have acted as sponsor at the launching of a ship, and this original and democratic scheme has been enthusiastically received by the men at the plant.

Local Boy Rivals
Performers' Stunt

Doug Marsland, 1417 Fernwood Road, last Sunday evening duplicated the circus feat advertised as "the favorite of two continents." Ascending the high pole that the "Two Comets" used in their act at the Shrine circus at the Willows, he did a hand-stand 90 feet above the ground.

While viewing the act on opening night, this Y.M.C.A. athlete was convinced he could do it. Sunday evening, he went to the Horse Show Building and after working out on the lower platform and acoustomizing himself to the height, he climbed the additional 15 feet of slender pole. At such a height, his weight on the flexible steel pole caused it to sway back and forth so that his feet touched the roof of the building on either side.

Asked whether he experienced any unusual qualms while hand-stand on far above ground, he replied, "No, nothing unusual, although I admit I did feel a little funny at first. It was more of a foot-balance than a hand-balance because of the swaying movement. But there was nothing to it, really."

For the two years, 1940 and 1941, Doug has held the Pacific Northwest gymnastics championship. He attended Victoria College for two years, and intends to be a physical training instructor.

Blown to Bits

VICHY, France (AP)—Two men and a woman literally were blown to bits by a bomb in the Albert Park in Nice yesterday, apparently when a suitcase carrying an infernal machine exploded prematurely.

DETROIT (AP)—A walkout of 250 employees in the press shop of the Briggs Manufacturing Company closed the Mack Avenue plant today. Similar stoppages yesterday had made 17,000 workers on two shifts idle. The management sent home 4,500 employees and an hour later operations of Chrysler Corporation's Plymouth division were halted for lack of parts, affecting 5,000 workers. The men complained about discharge of a shop steward.

Bus Drivers
Seek Increase

Blue Line bus drivers in Victoria opened their case for union recognition and a 50 per cent increase in wages before a provincial board of arbitration in the Courthouse this morning. Nainimo drivers of the same company argued their case earlier in the week.

The men want recognition of National Drivers' Union, Local No. 1, and an increase from 50 to 75 cents an hour in wages. The company, in a counter-proposal, has offered 55 cents an hour.

Raymond W. Hill, driver of a Shoal Bay bus, was the principal witness this morning.

While unmarried himself, he said he did not know how married drivers could get along on the wages they were paid. He had difficulty himself, he said.

Hill said he was solidly in support of union recognition. He declared a company union or organization of company employees did not have the bargaining power of a national union and members did not feel as free to express their opinions.

He denied there had been any coercion of the men to join the National Drivers' Union. The Blue Line men had written to headquarters of the Canadian Congress of Labor asking for a charter, he said, to give their organization more strength.

The hearing is proceeding before the board consisting of G. Howard Harman, chairman, Maris Hale and A. Clyde.

Flower Show Draws
Heavy Entry

The midsummer flower show of the Victoria Horticultural Society at the Crystal Garden promises to be one of the outstanding of the season.

Numerous entries have been received, and when the doors open to the public at noon, the hall will be filled to capacity with a grand showing of flowers, fruits and vegetables.

Gladioli and dahlias will predominate, but there will be many other varieties of seasonal flowers.

Among the larger displays will be those of the Palmer Gardens of Cowichan Bay, which will include many of the latest varieties of gladioli which have been originated by both themselves and also by E. F. Palmer of Vineland, Ontario, who is recognized as one of the foremost hybridizers on this continent.

Geo. E. Wardle will have another large display of gladioli and dahlias, and a further display of dahlias will be shown by Brown's Victoria Nurseries Ltd. The show will conclude at 9 p.m., with an auction of the cut flowers.

The staging of the show is in charge of E. F. Waller as convener, and President W. H. Warren, Vice-president F. E. Boulter and Secretary Ald. D. D. McIntosh.

Naval Seaman Dies
While Ship at Sea

Mrs. Archie Menzies, 329 Kingston Street, has received word that her husband, an able seaman in the Royal Canadian navy, had died and was buried at sea. He was 31.

For a time he was stationed in Victoria, and Mrs. Menzies came here in February, 1940, to join him. They had previously lived in Vancouver.

His mother, Mrs. R. Dean, lives in California. There are three sons here, aged 6, 4 years and 14 months.

Owl Makes Mistake
A young barn owl's mistake gave Mrs. J. Crawford, 1000 Joan Crescent, a startling experience and city police an unusual assignment last night.

The owl must have mistaken the chimney at Mrs. Crawford's house for a perch in the old oak tree, because he fell down the flue and trapped himself in the house.

Mrs. Crawford phoned police asking for assistance and Constables Laurie Greenwood and Harry Mercer responded. They caught the frightened young bird, which was only about five inches tall, and took it to the police station in a paper bag.

The owl is now at the home of one of the members of the Naval Provost Corps, who is awaiting the dark of night to set the bird free.

J. P. Walls was remanded until Monday for sentence when he pleaded guilty in City Police Court today to a charge that he did contravene an order of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. City Prosecutor Claude L. Harrison said accused increased a rent by $2.50 a month in the leasing of a house to Miss Mary Inkster at 952 Queens Avenue.

Steel Plant Pact Orders No Coercion

OTTAWA (CP) — Munitions
Minister Howe has issued a six-point statement clarifying the situation in the Hamilton plant of the National Steel Car Corporation as regards the bargaining rights of plant employees.

The statement, drawn up after a visit to Ottawa by a delegation of the National Steel Car Employees' Association headed by President Peter Tully and Secretary-treasurer Graham Webb, said:

"1. The government recognizes that there are two or more organizations of the employees of this plant;

"2. Each organization of employees has its own bargaining rights with the management through its duly chosen leader;

"3. There must be no coercion or discrimination by the management or by the employees in respect of membership in any group;

"4. Having in mind that war production in this plant has twice been interrupted by strikes, any man that leaves his employment for any cause whatever other than illness or by arrangement with the management will be considered to have elected to give up his seniority and other rights of employment in the plant;

"5. The conditions of employment, dated at Hamilton August 6, 1941, signed by E. J. Brunning as controller and H. B. Chase, director-general of labor relations (Department of Munitions and Supply) will stand unless and until amended by mutual agreement between the government and the representatives of the employee groups;

"6. Mr. Brunning has resigned as controller of the plant owing to pressure of his duties as associate director-general of munitions for his department. Mr.
Chase has been appointed as controller for his department.

The government took over control of the big munitions-making plant last spring following a strike which resulted from failure of the company management to implement recommendations of a conciliation board. Brunning was named controller at that time.

FILM ACTRESS IS AVIATION EXPERT

Claire Dodd, who plays the romantic lead in Universal's new laugh sensation, with Bud Abbott and Lou Costello and Dick Powell,
"In the Navy," coming to the Capitol Theatre next Monday, is one of Hollywood's first sailplane devotees. The beautiful actress has long been a flying enthusiast, owns and pilots her own twinmotored ship. She has ordered one of the motorless sky craft and has been studying sailplane operation during brief periods between screen assignments.

Plaza to Show Crazy Gang Comedy

Billy Russell, the north-country comedian, is so like Hitler that he is automatically featured in the role of the German Fuehrer in almost every topical film which is made.

He has played the part of "that man" in "Gestapo," "For Freedom," "Mein Kampf—My Crimes," and his famous moustache and forelock will be seen again in "Gasbags," Gainsborough's new Crazy Gang comedy which comes to the Plaza Theatre next week.

But Billy's remarkable likeness to the most hated man in the world is getting a little embarrassing. People write abusive letters to him, and the children in the neighborhood in which he lives run after him booing and calling out "Hitler."

He consoles himself with the thought that this is really a testimony to the skill with which he carries out the impersonation. He heaves a sigh of relief, though, at the end of a film when he can shake off the incriminating moustache.

CADET THEATRE
Nelson Eddy demonstrates more musical versatility than ever before in "Bitter Sweet," filmization of the Noel Coward operetta, in which he not only sings, but plays the piano and violin, and leads an orchestra.

The new musical is currently at the Cadet Theatre, with Jeanette
MacDonald co-starring with Eddy

PLAZA THEATRE
Although dignified Katherine
Alexander usually plays sophisticated roles in films, she was born in the backwoods country of Oklahoma! However, she spent most of her life in New York, and received her education in private schools there. Miss Alexander has a prominent role in "Angels With Broken Wings," a musical comedy produced by Rea pioneer judge.

KEEL LAID FOR U.S.S. RENO—In San Francisco, Congressman James G. Scrugham, chairman of the House Committee on Naval Appropriations, drives the first rivet in the keel of the new light cruiser Reno, first of a series of this class of navy ship to go into construction there. Rear-Admir. J. W. Greenslade, commandant of the 12th Naval District, right.

Richelieu Still Down By Stern

LONDON (CP)—The 35,000-ton French battleship Richelieu, damaged a year ago in a British raid on Dakar, French West Africa, still lies in the harbor listing by the stern, according to a party of Australian air gunners who arrived in Britain.

"They should know" was the official comment here. Naval circles professed no information of "Darlan's pride," damaged when a British motorboat roared into the harbor and placed depth charges under her stern.

The Australians, who conceded little chance of the Richelieu seeing action again in this war, saw her when they reached Dakar after spending 12 days in lifeboats following the torpedoing of their ship.

The Australians hailed a

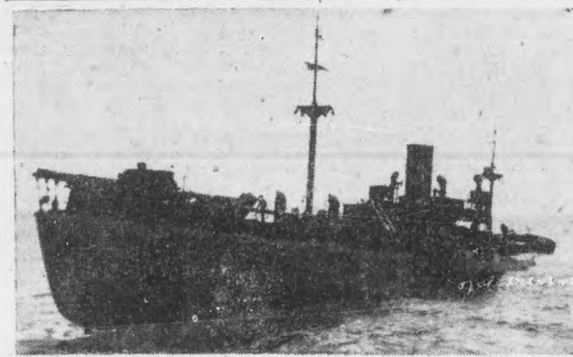

French ship as they approached the harbor and were told by the skipper to tie up on the seaward side so port authorities would not see them. He took the sick aboard and passed down food and a chart to the others who sailed another 130 miles to Bathurst in British Guiana.

Australian Wool Landed at Portland

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Thirty-two thousand bales of Australian wool were discharged from the holds of the Matson freighter Hawaiian Planter here today and put aboard 250 box cars for New England.

K. R. Kingsbury, Portland manager for Matson, said shipment of Australian wool to this port, which is the United States' largest wool shipping centre, was experimental. If rail movement is rapid enough more cargoes will follow.

"Tips for Tourists"—See them on Page 17 of this paper.

TIMELY RESCUE—This remarkable picture shows a sinking British freighter as a Canadian destroyer comes up to it after being notified 20 minutes before by a Sunderland bomber, which sighted the distressed vessel. Members of the destroyer's crew helped rescue 42 crew members and a canary from the freighter's deck. Then, because it could not be salvaged, the Canadians were forced to fire on the British ship and sink her. Although she was already sinking, her bulkheads would have prevented her going down completely, but she might have drifted into sea lanes, a menace to other vessels.

Star of Finland To Sail Again

Scarcity of deep-sea vessels is bringing the old windships into service once again.

The famous old windjammer Star of Finland, well known on the Pacific, will be towed from Oakland to Grays Harbor next month to load a cargo of lumber for South Africa under charter to the East Asiatic Company, Inc.

The vessel was built in 1889 for King Kalakalua of Hawaii.

King Kalakalua, who had dreamed of welding the islands of the South Seas into a maritime field, died before the ship was completed.

For a time she was operated in the Hawaiian sugar trade and later was employed in the Alaska canner trade.

The three-masted, steel-hulled windjammer has been at the Bethlehem Shipyards in Oakland for several months for refitting. She will be rechristened the Kaulani—Star of Heaven—the name under which she was launched at Bath, Me.

In 1910, the vessel was bought by the Alaska Packers Association and given the name of Star of Finland. She was replaced in the canner trade by a steam vessel in 1927.

The windjammer was purchased from the Alaska Packers Association by Don H. Bates, Portland, Ore., insurance man, who sold her to the Hammond Lumber Company for $78,000.

The Star of Finland had a brief motion picture career in which she participated in the filming of "Souls at Sea," co-starring Gary Cooper and George Raft. For the motion picture, the old windjammer was rigged as a clipper ship and painted white.

The Star of Finland was the last of the Alaska Packers' famous fleet of sailing vessels. The others were the Star of Zealand, Star of Lapland, Star of Shetland and Star of Holland.

U.S. Travelers Need Permits

WASHINGTON (AP)—All United States citizens and aliens desiring to enter or leave United States after September 1 will be required to obtain entry or exit permits, or their equivalent, under new regulations under preparation by the State and Justice Departments.

President Roosevelt is expected to announce the new policy in the interests of national defence, through a proclamation to be issued after his return to Washington.

Officials said they did not expect any changes in present regulations governing travel to and from Canada and Mexico, or to Cuba, which does not require passports from American citizens.

The new regulations are designed particularly to curb the movements of spies, propagandists, fifth columnists or other travelers whose activities would be detrimental to interests of United States.

Transfer Oil From Salvaged Barge

VANCOUVER (CP)—B. L. Walton, Johnson Company Ltd., agents for the Standard Oil Company of British Columbia Ltd., said the oil company's barge S.O. Co. No. 95, will be towed to Vancouver from Deep Bay, B.C., as soon as her oil cargo is transferred to other vessels.

The S.O. Co. 95, largest oil barge in the world, ran on Ripple Rock, in Seymour Narrows, last Monday while en route from Vancouver to Ocean Falls, B.C., and sprang leaks in three holds. She was in charge of the Island Tug and Barge Company Ltd. tugboat Snohomish which then towed her to Deep Bay where she was anchored.

The agents said here that the oil barge Sandy of the Puget Sound Tug and Barge Company of Seattle has gone to Deep Bay to take from 20,000 to 25,000 tons of oil from the S.O. Co. 95 and deliver it to Ocean Falls and other industrial centres along the British Columbia coast.

The 37-foot barge was carrying about 40,000 barrels of fuel oil when she struck Ripple Rock.

Grounded in Fog

SEATTLE (AP)—The Alaska liner Aleutian and the inter-coastal freighter Hanley, both inbound, lost their way in a fog and grounded at West Point, near Fort Lawton, here yesterday. Coastguardsmen and two tugs stood by to assist in floating the vessels.

Navy Officers Toast Governor

Commodore W. J. R. Beech, R.C.N., commanding officer of the Pacific coast naval establishments, and some 40 officers of the station, were hosts to Lieutenant-Governor Eric W. Hamber at a farewell dinner to His Honor last evening in the officers' mess of the Esquimalt Naval Barracks.

Presiding over the gathering, Commodore Beech extended a cordial welcome to the Lieutenant-Governor on behalf of the officers under his command. The commodore expressed the appreciation to Mr. Hamber for all he had done for the navy during his term of office and said how sorry they all were that His Honor was retiring from the office he had filled so understandingly.

Replying to the toast which the commodore and his officers proposed, His Honor thanked them for the invitation and said he would always remember his pleasant association with the navy.

During the dinner the R.C.N. band played selections.

Bees Hang in Strings At Wax Making Time

When a swarm of honeybees leaves the old hive, work must be done toward fitting up a new home. If no clever man comes along to give the swarm a ready-made home, a natural hollow in wood or rock may be chosen.

Finding such a hollow is only a small part of the work. Combs must be formed from wax, and this wax must come from the bees themselves.

Having eaten their fill of honey, many bees hang from the roof of the hive, forming a string. The forelegs of one bee are clasped about the hind legs of the one above. Another string starts from a different point on the ceiling, and the lowermost bee clings to the lowermost member of the other string. In that position they remain, usually for a day and night.

While hanging thus, the bees produce wax. It comes from their abdomens, and they scrape it up with their legs. After it is chewed, it is ready for use in making combs.

In building a comb, great numbers of bees take part. Some put the wax in place; others shape it into cells. The combs are begun from the roof of the hive, and more and more cells are added beneath. Each cell meant for a young worker bee or for a drone is made with six sides. This form gives the most cells possible within a given space of comb.

When the wax is new, it is white, but soon it begins to take on a shade of yellowish brown. Very old combs become almost black.

If, by accident, the bees lose their queen and have no young queens about to hatch, the workers know what to do. There are sure to be some worker-eggs in the comb, and these—if given the chance—can turn into queens instead of workers. To bring that about, the cells must be made larger, and the young must be fed differently.

Honeybees were brought to North America by some of the early colonists. It appears that none existed on this continent before the white men came. They are today important "domestic animals," since they produce in the United States and Canada millions of pounds of honey every year.

HOROSCOPE

Benefic aspects are noted for today.

Important results should be the result of co-operation among associates. Contracts or transactions of all kinds should be mutually beneficial. Visits and social activities should prove entertaining. It is an excellent time to make decisions about either business or private affairs. London astrologers declare Hitler may make great efforts to consolidate his gains in Europe. They foresee little success in this direction.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of an exciting year. Children born on this day may be aggressive and persevering.

Cricket Matches

Pair of Victoria and District Cricket League matches will be run off tomorrow. Out at Beacon Hill the Garrison and Albions will meet, while at Duncan the Five C's will engage Cowichan. Play will start at 2.30.

The C's and Garrison are sharing first place in the circuit, each with five victories, although the Garrison have played two more matches and suffered two losses, while the churchmen are unbeaten in five starts. Albions have won three games and Cowichan and the District Depot one each.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—I have been married 27 years. Am 53. Have been through the usual matrimonial combats, but none of them ever got me down until this present one. It is about my husband kidding me about being fat, which has assumed the water-dripping-on-the-rock basis until the rock is about to break. I can stand as much kidding as the next one, but this has got me going. I dress carefully, make myself as attractive as possible, keep smiling, try to be a good companion, and all is well until he gets off a gag about my being fat. That makes me so mad I almost hate him, and things have come to such a pass that I have thought about leaving him. I guess I have become sensitive, and all he has to do is to nudge me when he sees an ugly fat woman and I'm off. And it isn't like. I was actually fat and out of shape. I am only a little stouter than I used to be. Now I have borne all of this nagging about being fat for 10 years and I can't stand it any more. What shall I do?

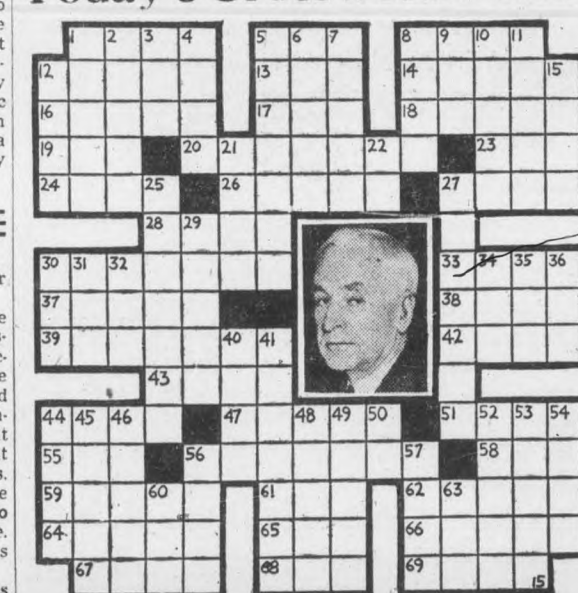

W.H.S.

Answer: Can't you develop a funnybone? Don't you realize that your husband teases you about being fat just because he has found out that he can get a rise out of you by doing it? If you could only laugh with him about it and show you didn't mind he would stop ever referring to your weight.

One way to stop your husband from teasing you is to pay him back in his own coin. Hand him a few well-thought-of jibes about his bald head or his paunchy stomach, or tell a few stories about some of his stock dealing transactions, and you will free yourself forever of his ridicule.

DOROTHY DIX.

'Bomb' Berlin With Bottles

LONDON (CP)—Sergt. James M. Maxon of Memphis, son of the Episcopal Bishop of Tennessee, told of his own style of bombing Berlin — dumping a half-dozen empty milk bottles from his rear gunner position.

Maxon, one of three United States-born fliers with the first Royal Canadian Air Force Squadron sent against the Nazi capital, explained that while the bomber of his plane was releasing explosives he heaved his bottles out one at a time.

They set up a fiendish, whining noise on the way down, Maxon said.

The other Americans taking part in the Tuesday night sortie against Berlin were Sergt. A. N. MacLennan of Glen Ridge, N.J., a second pilot, and Sergt. G. J. Masse of Central Falls, R.I., who was injured slightly by anti-aircraft shrapnel.

The plane in which Masse flew made a belly landing on its return to Britain because its undercarriage was damaged by German anti-aircraft fire. None of the crew was hurt in the landing.

A ground crew discovered later that the landing was made with bombs still in the plane. The bomber crew said they dropped the main load of bombs on Germany and that the bombing apparatus probably was clogged by the anti-aircraft hit.

6 Men Killed Near Sitka

SITKA, Alaska (AP)—A roaring 35-foot wall of rock, loosed by a premature explosion, was charged today with the deaths of six workmen at a quarry for the big United States naval air base on Japonski Island in Sitka Harbor.

A seventh man, H. W. Hagadorn of Tacoma, was rescued after he lay helpless for five hours under a mass of rocks with one leg draped over a box of dynamite. Another worker, Vince Cowan, worked under the rock mass for five hours to rescue Hagadorn, who suffered only slight head injuries and bruises.

Bodies of Ralph J. McLure, Seattle; Commodore Dewey Strode, son of Mrs. L. A. Strode of Camas, Wash., and Ralph Carlson, son of Mrs. E. Folk, Kingston, Idaho, have been recovered.

The other victims listed as dead were E. A. Burkley, C. R. Best and E. N. Rosser, the latter believed to be of Seattle.

The island on which the air base and quarry are situated is about 200 yards offshore from the town of Sitka, in the island and mountain-framed harbor. Sitka is on the Pacific ocean side of Baranof Island, about 100 miles southwest of Juneau. It has been a booming centre of defence activity.

The island was named Japonski (Japanese) by the Russians because a Japanese junk went ashore on the coast in 1805 and the sailors lived for a time on the island.
